[1] POMPONIUS MELA. Cosmographia sive De situ Orbis. Unacum Prisciani ex Dionysio Thessalonicensi de situ Orbis interpretatione.

Black Letter, long lines, 30 to a full page. Rubric on first leaf of text printed in red. With very interesting woodcut map of the World on verso of first leaf and with two large and five smaller woodcut ornamental capitals.

Venice, Erhard Ratdolt, 18*th July*, 1482. £52 10s

Church No. 1. Hain *11019.

On the verso of leaf A 1 is a modified Ptolemaic Map of the World engraved on wood, which shows Europe, Asia, and the northern portion of Africa. On the latter we find the Nile, with its sources in two lakes, one directly on the equator, and the other just south of it. These lakes correspond in place with those now called the Albert and Victoria Nyanza, showing that their location was surmised, if not actually known to geographers, at least four centuries before their late re-discovery. At the south, streams rising in mountains flow into these lakes. The Niger in western Africa is also laid down.

This map is a very early example of true chiaroscuro printing.

Of Pomponius Mela nothing whatever is known, but he is believed to have lived in the time of the Emperor Claudius. This is one of the earliest geographical works, the editio princeps of which appeared in 1471. It is written in a clear and simple style and notwithstanding its conciseness is enlivened with interesting descriptions of manners and customs.

In the Church Catalogue only five other copies are mentioned (British Museum; Bodleian; University Library, Cambridge, England; John Carter Brown; and Lenox Libraries).

Basel, Johannis Bergman de Olpe, 1st August, 1497. £31 10s

Harrisse B.A.V. Additions No. 5. Church No. 13. Hain *3750.

Sebastian Brant, a German satirical poet, wrote the "Ship of Fools," a poem which enjoyed considerable popularity in its time, and was translated into Latin and the principal European languages. The popularity of this work is attested by the fact that four different editions of the Latin edition were published in 1497.

The following passage is of interest for its early allusion to the New World.

Prestita cosmographi lustrat documenta Strabonis
  Intactu tota nil sinit orbe quidem.
Quid geometer enim tantas in pectore curas
  Concipis: incassum circulus ista terit.
Plinius erravit: quamvis spectabilis auctor:
  Errores varios & Ptolomeus habet.
Invanum siquide multorum corda laborant:
  Rebus in incertis quos ita sudor agit.
Antea que fuerat priscis incognita tellus:
  Exposita est oculis & manifesta patet.
Hesperie occidue rex Ferdinandus in alto
  Aequore nunc gentes repperit innumeras.

Brant here repudiates the errors of Pliny and Ptolemy for stating that there was no land beyond the sea to the West, and gives a full page engraving of Pliny as a "Fool."

PEDRO ALVAREZ CABRAL WAS CHOSEN BY KING EMMANUEL TO COMMAND THE SECOND FLEET WHICH THE KING SENT TO THE INDIES. THE KING GAVE HIM THE ROYAL STANDARD AT A CEREMONY IN THE CHURCH AT BELEM AND THE BISHOP OF VISEU PLACED UPON HIS HEAD A HAT WHICH THE POPE HAD

BLESSED. CABRAL LEFT THE TAGUS IN MARCH, 1500, WITH THIRTEEN VESSELS AND 1,200 MEN, WITH GUNS FIRING AMIDST THE ACCLAMATIONS OF THE PEOPLE OF LISBON. LITTLE DID HE THINK THAT A LUCKY CHANCE WOULD ENABLE HIM TO MAKE THE DISCOVERY WHICH HAS EVER SINCE MADE HIS NAME FAMOUS.

IN ORDER TO AVOID THE DEAD CALMS OF THE AFRICAN COAST, CABRAL LEFT THE USUAL ROUTE AND HELD ON A COURSE WHICH WAS SO WESTERLY THAT HE FOUND HIMSELF IN FRONT OF UNKNOWN LAND ON THE 24TH APRIL, 1500; THIS LAND WAS BRAZIL, WHICH WAS NAMED BY THE DISCOVERER "LAND OF THE HOLY CROSS." IN THIS MANNER IT IS EVIDENT THAT EVEN IF THE GENIUS OF COLUMBUS HAD NOT LED TO THE DISCOVERY OF AMERICA, EIGHT YEARS LATER, A EUROPEAN WOULD HAVE SET FOOT ON ITS SHORES WITHOUT LOOKING FOR IT.

THE FIRST HARBOUR WHERE THE PORTUGUESE COULD LAND WAS NAMED BY THEM "PORTO-SEGURO." AFTER SOME DAYS SPENT ON THIS NEW LAND CABRAL TOOK AFRESH HIS COURSE TO INDIA, BUT BEFORE ARRIVING THERE A TEMPEST CAUSED HALF OF HIS FLEET WITH THEIR CREWS TO PERISH.

AMONG THE VICTIMS WAS THE FAMOUS BARTOLOMY DIAZ, THE FIRST SAILOR TO HAVE REACHED THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE. CABRAL SUCCEEDED IN ASSEMBLING SIX SHIPS AND WENT TO MOZAMBIQUE, AND THEN TO CALCUTTA, WHICH HE BOMBARDED A FEW DAYS LATER TO AVENGE AN ACT OF TREASON ON THE PART OF ITS RULER. AFTER THIS VIGOROUS ACTION, WHICH GAVE THE NATIVES A VERY HIGH IDEA OF THE POWER AND CIVILISATION OF THE PORTUGUESE, HE VISITED THE SHORES OF INDIA AS A CONQUERING HERO; THE KINGS OF COCHIN AND CANNANORE HASTENED TO MAKE COMMERCIAL TREATIES WITH HIM, AND HIS VESSELS LOADED WITH THE TREASURES OF THE EAST HE SET SAIL FOR EUROPE AND ANCHORED IN THE TAGUS ON THE 23RD JUNE, 1501. THIS WAS APPARENTLY CABRAL'S LAST AND ONLY EXPEDITION, DURING WHICH HE HAD NOT ONLY DISCOVERED WHAT WAS TO BE PORTUGAL'S GREATEST COLONY FOR MANY CENTURIES, BUT ALSO FIRMLY ESTABLISHED THE TRADING RELATIONS OF THE PORTUGUESE WITH THE EAST INDIES.

[5] STAMLER (Johannes). Dyalogus—De Diversarum Gencium Sectis et Mundi Religionibus.

With a remarkable title-page engraved on wood, which is repeated on the reverse. This title-page is by Hans Burgmaier, and is one of the finest examples of this master's wood engravings.

Printed in Roman letters.

Folio, vellum.

Augsburg, Erhardt Oglin and Georg Nadler, 1508. £75

A very good copy, with one or two slight restorations.

Church No. 26.

Harrisse B.A.V. No. 51, where it is described as "An extremely rare and curious Drama, described on the leaf following the title as 'Dyalogus in modum comici dramatis formatus a J. Stamler de Tartarorum, Saracenorum, Turcorum, Judeorum et Gentilium Sectis et Religionibus ac eorundem Confutatione, &c.' The letter from Stamler to Jacob Locher, dated 13 Kal. Junii 1506, is of the highest interest to American Collectors, as he mentions by name Christopher Columbus and Albericus Vespucius as the discoverers of the New World. The Drama has a marginal Commentary, which is important not only to theologians as pointing out heresies, but also to the astronomer. Stamler seems to have been an enemy to judicial astrology."

THE PASSAGE MENTIONING COLUMBUS AND VESPUCIUS IS AS FOLLOWS:—DE INSULIS AUTEM INVENTIS MENTIONEM NULLAM FACIO; SED CRISTOFERI COLOM EARUNDEM INVENTORIS ET ALBERICI VESPUCII DE ORBE MODERNO INVENTO (QUIBUS ETAS NOSTRA POTISSIMUM DEBET) QUOS TIBI PRESENTIBUS TRACTATULOS MITTO CONSPICIAS.

IN TRANSLATION THIS PASSAGE READS:—"I DO NOT MAKE ANY MENTION OF THE NEWLY DISCOVERED ISLANDS, BUT OF CHRISTOPHER COLOM, THEIR DISCOVERER, AND OF ALBERICUS VESPUCIUS; ON THE DISCOVERY OF THE NEW WORLD (TO WHOM OUR AGE IS CHIEFLY INDEBTED) BEHOLD WHAT TREATISE I SEND YOU."

The writer of this work, Johannes Stamler, was the rector of the parish church at Kissingen.

ONLY SEVEN OTHER COPIES OF THIS IMPORTANT WORK ARE KNOWN; SIX IN THE U.S.A. (HARVARD UNIVERSITY, JOHN CARTER BROWN, LENOX, LIBRARY OF CONGRESS AND AYER LIBRARIES), AND ONE COPY IN EUROPE (BRITISH MUSEUM).

THE FOUR VOYAGES OF VESPUCCIUS.

[6] WALDSEEMUELLER (Martin) [In Latin Martinus Hylacomylus.] Cosmographiae Introductio. Insuper quattuor Americi Vespucii navigationes.

With folding plate, consisting of a world map with fourteen lines of explanatory text.

Black Letter, 37 long lines to a full page, with woodcut initial letters and numerous diagrams. With numerous contemporary manuscript notes and diagrams.

Large Paper Copy.

Strassburg, Johannes Grüninger, 1509. £250

This work is a little cosmographical treatise. The four letters of Vespuccius which occupy the greater portion of this work, originally written in Italian, first appeared in print at Florence, about 1505 or 1506, as the "Lettera di Amerigo Vespucci delle Isole Nuovamente Trovate in Quattro suoi Viaggi," are annexed in this Latin quarto of Waldseemueller's. These letters were translated into Latin from a French version which, however, does not now appear to be in existence. In this work Waldseemueller is the first to suggest that the newly discovered Continent should be called "Americi Terra" or "America," in the following words (translation):—"Now however those parts are more widely investigated, and another quarter has been discovered by Americus Vespucius (as will be heard in the sequel), and I do not see how any one can lawfully forbid that it should be named, after its sagacious and ingenious discoverer, Amerigo (as it were Americo's land), or America."

The Author states that "the greatest part of the still unknown land lately discovered by Americus Vespucius is inhabitable," and "the fourth part of the world, which since Americus discovered it, may be called Amerige (as it were the land of Americus) or America, is in the sixth climate."

"But for this little work the Western Hemisphere might have been called "The Land of the Holy Cross," or "Atlantis," or "Hesperides," or "Iberica," or "Columbia," or "New India," or "The Indies," as it is designated officially in Spain to this day. The idea of calling the newly discovered world America originated with the compiler of the work before us, one Martin Waltzmüller or Waldseemüller, a native of Freiburg, who held a professorship in the gymnasium of St. Dié, in Lorraine (and not in Lower Hungary, as Navarrete supposed). Following the custom of the scholars of those days, he grecized his name into Hylacomylus, under which he is generally known. The popularity of Hylacomylus' Cosmographia was such in Central Europe that his proposition was immediately acted upon. As a consequence, we find in Gaultier Ludd's Speculum Orbis, written in the same year, the credit of having discovered the Western Hemisphere ascribed solely to Vespuccius, while an anonymous "Globus mundi," published by the same printer in 1509, boldly calls the new World "America," which figures under this name for the first time in maps eight or ten years after Vespuccius had been in his then honoured grave. Well may we say with Humboldt that; "c'est un homme obscur, qui allait manger du raisin en Lorraine, qui a inventé le nom d'Amérique."

Americus Vespuccius was born at Florence, March 9, 1451, and died at Seville, February 22, 1512. He was educated by his uncle, a Dominican monk, and had for a fellow-student the famous Piero Soderini. His early manhood was spent in Florence, where he was employed by the commercial house of the Medici Princes. It was perhaps during this early period of his life that he acquired an excellent practical knowledge of astronomy.

He was sent to Barcelona some time between 1489 and 1491 as a confidential agent of the Medici. Early in 1493 he entered into connection with the house of Juanoto Berardi, at Seville, and after Berardi's death it is quite probable that he helped to equip the vessels for Columbus's second expedition. He met Columbus, probably soon after his return from his First Voyage, with whom, according to Columbus's own words, he was on most friendly terms. It is certain that he remained at Seville until early in 1496.

Our information respecting Vespuccius's voyages is based entirely upon his two famous letters; one, his letter to his old patron Lorenzo de Piero Francesco de' Medici, written in March or April, 1503, giving an account of his Third Voyage or his First under the Portuguese flag; the second, his letter to his old school-fellow Piero Soderini, dated from Lisbon, September 4, 1504, which gives a brief account of his Four Voyages.

From the latter we learn that the First and Second Voyages were accomplished under the Spanish flag; the First, with Pinzon and Solis, lasting from May 10, 1497, until October 15, 1498; the Second, with Ojeda and La Cosa, from May 16, 1499, to June, 1500.

His Third and Fourth Voyages were both under the Portuguese flag. The Third, probably with Nuno Manoel, lasted from May 10, 1501 to September 7, 1502, while the Fourth occupied the interval between June 10, 1503, and November 7, 1504.

In each of these voyages Vespuccius doubtless held some subordinate position, most likely as astronomer, or, as we should now say, as navigator; for, in his narratives, he nowhere lays claim to having been in command of any of these expeditions.

On September 4, 1504, he was at Lisbon, where he finished writing the account of his Four Voyages, or an abridgment of the same. He soon after returned to Seville, and becoming a Castilian subject, by naturalization, occupied various official positions until 1508, when he was appointed Pilot-Major of Spain, a position which he held until his death, February 22, 1512. During this last period of his life he made two more voyages in company with La Cosa; his Fifth in 1505, and a Sixth in 1507.

It is certain that Vespuccius had nothing whatever to do with giving the name "America" to the New World. This was done by Martin Waldseemüller, a professor of geography and an enthusiastic admirer of Vespuccius, who invented the word and first suggested its application in his Cosmographiae Introductio, in which Vespuccius's account of his Four Voyages was published in Latin.

Of this third voyage Vespuccius, in 1503, wrote two accounts; one, in the Portuguese language, was addressed to King Manoel: the other, a translation into Italian, was addressed to Lorenzo di Piero de' Medici. The originals of both these letters are now lost.

Within two years after it was written numerous editions of a Latin translation, made by Giovanni Giocondo from the Italian original, were printed, usually with the title; Mundus Novus. The earliest of these is thought to be that printed at Paris, by Jehan Lambert. The earliest edition, with a date, appeared at Augsburg in 1504; most of the editions, however, give neither place nor date. Harrisse in his Bibliotheca Americana Vetustissima and its Additions places these under the date of 1504. At Strasburg in 1505 appeared another edition with the title Be (De) ora antarctica, etc., which was the last separate appearance of this Latin version. Another account of this voyage in Latin, translated by Madrignano, is to be found in the Itinerarium Portugaliensium, printed at Milan in 1508.

The Lettera having come into Giocondo's hands, in Paris, was probably translated by him into French, at Ringmann's suggestion; and was addressed to René II., Duke of Lorraine. This was entrusted to Ringmann to convey to the Duke. This French version was translated into Latin by Johannes Basinus (Jean Bassin) and first appeared, as already stated, in Waldseemüller's Cosmographiae Introductio.

THE FIRST EDITION.

The author of this work, in the masterly way in which he discourses upon the antiquities of Rome, shows himself to have been one of the most learned archaelogists of his day. After speaking of the Rome of the past, he proceeds, in his third book, to the consideration of the New Rome, and finishes the work with a chapter on Florence, in which he enumerates its orators, writers, painters, and other famous men among whom, on the recto of the last printed leaf, appears a reference to Vespuccius, and his discovery of New Islands. This allusion is of considerable interest, and as translated reads as follows: "In the New World Albericus Vespulsius, a Florentine, sent by the Most Faithful King of Portugal, and later by the Catholic King of Spain, first discovered New Islands, and unknown places, as appears in his Libellum, in which he graphically describes the stars and New Islands, and as also appears in his Epistle on the New World, to Laurentius de Medici, the younger.

These words plainly indicate the existence of two books by Vespuccius prior to 1510.

In addition to the Church copy, the Church Catalogue was only able to quote other copies in two libraries (British Museum and Lenox Libraries).

Second Latin Edition of the Second and Third Letters.

Harrisse B.A.V. No. 168. Church No. 63.

This edition contains besides the Second and Third Letters of Cortes in Latin, Peter Martyr's "De Insulis," and a letter from Martin de Valencia, dated June 12th, 1531, at the Convent of Thalmanaco, in Yucatan, with others sent from Mexico by Bishop Zumarraga (the first Bishop of Mexico) giving an account of the Franciscan Schools in Mexico for the teaching and conversion of the Indians. ¶The Church Catalogue only knew of copies in the following Libraries: British Museum, Huth, John Carter Brown, American Geographical Society, Lenox, Hoe, Long Island Historical Society, Library Company of Philadelphia, Library of Congress, and Ayer Library.

Hernando Cortés, the Conqueror of Mexico, was born in 1485, and died near Seville, Dec. 2, 1547 In 1629 his remains were exhumed and taken to the City of Mexico, but their present resting place is unknown. He made his first voyage to the New World in 1504. In 1511 he returned, having joined Valasquez' expedition to Cuba as the commander's executive officer, a position in which he served with distinction.

In 1518 he persuaded Valasquez to appoint him commander of a party to explore Mexico. At the last moment Valasquez appears to have regretted the appointment, but Cortés hastened his preparations and left Santiago on the 18*th of Nov.*, 1518, landing on the shores of Mexico of the fourth of the following March. He sailed along the coast, finally taking possession of Tabasco. At San Juan de Ulloa he first learned of the extensive empire over which Montezuma ruled, and decided upon its conquest. He thereupon founded the city of Vera Cruz, caused himself to be appointed Captain-General of the colony, scuttled his ships, and set out on his march towards the city of Mexico. After four battles he entered Tlascala September 8, 1519, and soon after pushed on towards Mexico, reaching that city early in November with a force of some 6,000 natives and a mere handful of Spaniards. He seized Montezuma and placed him in irons, but afterwards restored him to a semblance of liberty.

An attempt at this juncture by Valasquez to compel him to surrender his command temporarily diverted him from his object. He promptly captured Narvaez and the army which had been sent against him, recruiting his own forces from the defeated troops. He then returned to Mexico only to find that the people had risen against the Spaniards. Driven from the city, a battle was fought on the plains of Otumba, in which Cortés won such a decisive and bloody victory as to re-establish his prestige.

While carrying on his invasion he wrote a series of Letters to the Emperor Charles V., giving a detailed account of his progress. These are the basis of almost all that is known of the events which took place during that notable conquest.

THIS CONTAINS ON PAGES 116-121 COSCO'S LATIN TRANSLATION OF COLUMBUS'S LETTER TO GABRIEL SANCHEZ ANNOUNCING THE DISCOVERY OF AMERICA. THIS IS THE EDITION FROM WHICH MOST EARLY WRITERS QUOTE

The author of this contemporary Chronicle of the First Crusade was a monk called Robert, in the cloister of the Monastery of Saint Remigius, at Rheims, of which he was the Abbot.

He accompanied Godfrey de Bouillon to the Holy Land, and in this work describes as an eye-witness the events of the years 1095-1099.

Harrisse, B.A.V. 190. Church No. 69.

The work is divided into three parts which are seldom found together. The first seems to have been taken, in great part, from the Decades of Peter Martyr; and the second, from the work of Oviedo, printed at Toledo in 1526. The third part is a translation, with additions, of the anonymous work, "La Conquista del Peru," printed at Sevilla in 1534, This third part has sometimes been wrongly described as a translation of Francisco Xeres'. "Verdadera Relacion de la Conquista del Peru," also printed at Seville, in 1534.

The large double map is the earliest one of Saint Domingo. It is very rare. Harrisse describes another large map (of the West Indies) but of that only one copy is known, in the Lenox Library.

Ours is an interesting copy which has some contemporary MS. notes in the margin; title and last few leaves slightly wormed.

THE CHURCH CATALOGUE ONLY KNEW OF COPIES IN THE FOLLOWING LIBRARIES: BRITISH MUSEUM, HUTH, JOHN CARTER BROWN, LENOX. AND AYER LIBRARIES.

Pietro Martire d'Anghiera, better known by his Latinized name Petrus Martyr, the first historian of America, was born at Arona, in July, about 1455, and died at Grenada, in Spain, in 1526. He possessed eminent ability and learning, and is believed to have been the first writer to notice in his works the discovery of America by his countryman Columbus, as he is the first who published a treatise descriptive of the peculiarities of the natives of the New World. In 1483 he went to Rome where he became acquainted with Cardinal Ascanio Sforza and Pomponius Laetus, to both of whom many of his letters were addressed. He was extremely fond of letter-writing, and, having a wide circle of correspondents, it was no doubt owing to him that the news of Columbus's discovery, which he probably received from the discoverer himself, became speedily known to a number of notable people outside of Spain. Harrisse in his "Notes on Columbus" has reprinted three of these letters.

In 1494 he was ordained a priest and appointed as tutor to the children of Ferdinand and Isabella. Seven years later he was sent on a diplomatic mission to Egypt, an account of which he has given us in his Legatio Babylonica. (Printed at end of above work).

He was the friend and contemporary of Columbus, Vasco da Gama, Cortés, Magellan, Cabot, and Vespuccius. From personal contact with these discoverers, as well as from his official position as a member of the Council for the Indies, which afforded him the free inspection of documents of undoubted authenticity, he was enabled to obtain, at first-hand, much valuable information regarding the discoveries made by the early navigators. These facts he embodied in his Decades, which were based upon his extensive correspondence, but were written with more care and give more ample details. His works were held in highest esteem by his contemporaries and have always been placed in the highest rank of authorities on the history of the first association of the Indians with the Europeans, and are indispensable as a primary source for the history of early American discoveries.

FIRST EDITION OF THIS THE MOST IMPORTANT BOOK ON SYPHILIS, ON WHICH RUY DIAZ DE YSLA IS THE FIRST AUTHORITY AS HE EXAMINED THE SAILORS OF COLUMBUS WHO FIRST BROUGHT SYPHILIS FROM THE NEW WORLD.

The translation of the most important passage relating to the origin of the disease is as follows:—

"Of the origin and birth of this serpentine disease of the Island Hispaniola. The disease which appeared and was seen in Spain in the year of the Lord one thousand four hundred and ninety and three in the city of Barcelona; the which city was infected and in consequence the whole of Europe and the universe of all known countries which are within reach of one another; the which evil had its origin and birth of old in the Island which to-day is called Hispaniola; this island was discovered and found by the Admiral Don Christobal Colon and up to the present there has been intercourse and communication with the people there.

"And as this disease from its own heat is very contagious and easily communicated it was quickly seen in his own navy. And as this disease had never before been seen or known by the Spaniards, those men who felt pains and other effects of the said infirmity attributed it to the work they did at sea or to other causes according to what seemed fit to every single one of them. And at the time the Admiral Don Christobal Colon came to Spain the King and Queen of Spain went to the City of Barcelona, etc. In the following year 1494 the most Christian King Charles of France hired many people and passed into Italy, and among them were many Spaniards who had been infected by this said infirmity and they started to infect the rest with this said infirmity. . . . In the Island of Hispaniola of old the Indians had called it Guaynaras also Hipas and Taybas and Ycas."

In the preface which is used to dedicate the book to King John III. of Portugal the author states that a million men at least had died of this disease because of their ignorance, which might be prevented by the nations having their attentions called to his treatise which was founded on his experience of over ten years as a salaried surgeon in the Lisbon hospital.

Peter Bienevitz, better known under his Latinized name Petrus Apianus, was a Professor of Astronomy at the University of Ingolstadt, for more than thirty years. He was an inventor of astronomical instruments and designed one of the earliest maps which contains the name America. His mathematical and astronomical works, notwithstanding his geographical blunders, must always take a prominent rank among those relating to the discoveries in the Western Hemisphere.

This edition of Apianus contains the second impression of the large folding map of the World which first appeared in the French edition of the previous year. The name America appears in the lower part, and in the upper part the word "Baccalearum." References to America appear in the text on folios 30 and 48. On folio 30 there is a special chapter devoted entirely to America.

The large map of the World shows both North and South America, the southern part bearing the name America, and the Northern the word "Baccalearum."

Harrisse B.A.V. No. 297. NO COPY IN THE CHURCH CATALOGUE.

These two parts contain a German translation of the second and third letters of Cortés, preceded by Peter Martyr's fourth Decade. Eight chapters added at the end are the most valuable part of the book, and consist of a Relation of the affairs of Venezuela by a German, who had gone out in the expedition sent by Welser of Augsburg, dated at Caro in Venezuela, 1540. This is in six chapters; the seventh and eighth are letters from Oviedo, the historian, dated San Domingo, 1543, chiefly concerning Orellana's expedition up the river Marañon, and the warlike Amazons who had opposed him.

The full Title reads in translation:—Hernando Cortés. Concerning New Spain, which is situated in the Ocean, towards the West. Two very interesting and useful stories. To the most powerful and invincible Charles V, and King of Spain, the first of which was written only in the year 1520, and wherein is mentioned, in a thorough and most reliable manner, of the Western countries, and especially of the most celebrated city of Temixtitan; the second, in 1524, relating how Temixtitian, which had revolted, was conquered. Then of several splendid victories, together with the discovery of the Southern Sea, which is believed to be the Indian Ocean; besides, of many other countries in the Indies which have been discovered from 1536 to 1542; containing many things useful and interesting, mentioned and indicated in a concise form, under the title of each history. First, written in the Spanish language, by Cortés himself, and afterwards translated into Latin by Dr. Peter Savorgnan, of Forli; lastly, into High German.

NOTES.

II. These four leaves which are appended to the Brevissima Relacion are usually mentioned as a separate tract, though it is really a part of that work. It contains the narrative of a Spanish traveller who witnessed some of the cruelties practised upon the natives by the Spaniards.

III. This tract gives the eighth of the proposed remedies, and assigns twenty reasons to prove that the Indians should not be given to the Spaniards in any form of slavery.

IV. The Bishop, during his absence in Mexico attending a council, had written twelve rules to the confessors whom he had appointed in his diocese to govern them in giving absolution. The rites of the Church were, by a Bull of Pope Paul III., refused to all who held Indians in slavery, and restitution of goods obtained by violence from them was required by the rules of the Bishop founded upon this great authority. Complaint having been made to the Council of the Indies of the rigour of these rules, the thirty propositions were written to sustain them.

V. This tract contains a strong enunciation of Las Casas' convictions, which grew out of his controversy with Sepulveda. It contains, first, a summary, by Domingo de Soto, of the differences between the two disputants; second, the arguments of Sepulveda; and third, the twelve replies of Las Casas to the same.

VI. This tract contains judicial authorities and reasons why the natives should be restored to freedom.

VII. This tract was written in America in 1546 or 1547, for the direction of Confessors, during Las Casas' attendance at the council held in the City of Mexico, in 1547, and may first have been printed in that city. By these rules the Confessors of his Bishopric were instructed to deny the offices of the Church to all such persons as held repartimientos, or who did not restore the avails of unrequited labour to the Indians.

VIII. This tract gives the principles on which Las Casas conducts his defence of the rights of the natives, and was evidently written to familiarize the Clergy with the principles upon which he based his whole theory of the rights of the Indians to personal liberty and rights of property.

IX. The purpose of this tract is to prove the sovereign Empire and universal dominion by which the Kings of Castille and Leon held the West Indies.

EXCESSIVELY RARE. A Complete Set of these original treatises, containing the nine parts as issued. ALL FIRST EDITIONS. With title-pages nearly all printed in red and black with woodcut borders. Bartolomé de Las Casas, the Apostle to the Indians of the Sixteenth Century, was born in Seville in 1474 of aristocratic lineage, and died at Madrid in 1566. In 1502 he went with Nicolas de Ovando to Hispaniola, where he settled, and in 1510 was ordained a priest. In 1511 he went as curate to a village in Cuba. He soon began to preach against the atrocious wrongs committed by the Spaniards against the natives, under a system of slavery the most cruel and destructive the world has ever known. This drew upon him the animosity of his sordid countrymen. Unable, by any means in his power, to check this cruelty, in 1515 he returned to Spain to make a personal appeal to his sovereign. Ferdinand's death, which happened soon after his arrival in Seville, put an end to his hopes in this direction, but he found sympathetic friends in Cardinal Ximenes and Adrian, the Regents, though he encountered general hostility to his views.

He returned to Hispaniola Nov. 11, 1516, fortified with the title of the "Protector of the Indians." He made numerous voyages between the Indies and Spain, in his endeavours to alleviate their condition. At last wearied with his efforts and lack of success, he retired to a Dominican convent in San Domingo, in 1522. He there spent eight years in retirement, occupied in study and writing. In 1539, while in Spain, he wrote "The Destruction of the Indies," one of the most gruesome books ever written. (NO. 19 (1) OF OUR CATALOGUE).

It was not at first allowed to be printed, but was submitted to the Emperor and his ministers. Twelve years later the work was published with a dedication to Philip, the heir to the throne. Though the number of victims was contested, it should be remarked that the acts of cruelty which he described were never called in question.

It was at this time, while detained in Spain by the Council for the Indies, that he won his grand and decisive triumph in securing the promulgation of the New Laws for the Indies by Charles V., the Leyes y Ordenanças Nuevamente hechas, por su Magestad, Alcala, 1543; the decisive clause of which commanded that for no cause whatever should any Indian thereafter be made a slave.

In 1544 he was consecrated Bishop of Chiapa, and on July 4 embarked for Hispaniola with forty-four monks. Resigning his bishopric, he returned to Spain for the last time in 1547, and three years later engaged in his bold controversy with Sepulveda, who with Oviedo were his most formidable opponents at the Spanish Court.

In 1552-1553, at Seville, Las Casas printed the series of nine tracts usually cited by the title of the first, "Brevissima relacion de la destrucion de las Indias." These are our principal sources of information in regard to his allegations against the Spanish oppressors of the Indians. (NO. 19 OF OUR CATALOGUE).

The writings of Las Casas afforded a most formidable weapon for any nation on ill terms with the Spaniards. Numerous editions were printed in Holland during its war with Spain. Similarly translations appeared in France and England.

There has recently appeared some disposition among historical writers to attempt to minimize the honor which Las Casas has so long held in the estimation of the world, if not to prove him an unsuccessful and disappointed man.

Fiske, however, happily expresses the well-nigh universal esteem in which Las Casas is held, when he characterizes him, as "A figure which is in some respects the most beautiful and sublime in the annals of Christianity since the Apostolic age." His labours for the amelioration of the condition of the Indians under Spanish domination certainly presents a picture of self-sacrifice and devotion which will continue to inspire the admiration of mankind so long as the Christian religion shall endure.

Church No. 98.

The author, who was with Cortes, may be said to have been the founder of the literature of seamanship. He was entrusted by the King with the examination of pilots and sailing-masters for the West Indies, taught navigation, and was held in high esteem as a cosmographer.

This book was most popular with the successors of Columbus and was translated into several languages. The map may be taken as embodying the result of Spanish discovery in 1540, as reported to him by the pilots, with whom his official position as examiner brought him into constant intercourse. It shows the mouth of the Mississippi, "R.SPT. SAN.," and the lands around the river and Gulf of the Saint Lawrence. Newfoundland had not yet been discovered to be an island. The river Saguenay is here indicated, a remarkable feature in so early a map.

The full-page map is noteworthy; a heavy graduated and numbered black line drawn vertically near the centre, divides the Spanish from the Portuguese possessions.

On the map we find in that portion of it which is devoted to the New World the following places, Florida, Labrador, Newfoundland, New Spain, Cuba, Jamaica, Mexico, Peru, Yucatan, etc.

Zarate, the Comptroller of Accounts for Castile, was sent out as treasurer-general, with the first viceroy, Blasco Nunez de Vela, to examine into the financial affairs of Peru, where he remained many years. He carefully collected notes and materials in his journal during his residence at Lima, and, on his return to Spain, began the compilation of a history from the discovery of Pizarro to the departure of Gasca. He had access to the best official sources of information, and his work is of great historical value, though strongly prejudiced and tedious and inelegant in its style. The original manuscript is preserved at Simancas.

Zarate was a man of rank and education. His history, whether we attend to its matter or composition, is a book of considerable merit.

A VERY RARE CONTEMPORARY VOLUME GIVING DETAILS OF FROBISHER'S FAMOUS VOYAGE TO THE NORTHERN BAY AND THE STRAITS WHICH NOW CARRY HUDSON'S NAME. HE GIVES A DESCRIPTION OF THE CUSTOMS AND MANNERS OF THESE LANDS AND OF OTHER UNKNOWN AND MARVELLOUS THINGS.

"Frobisher sailed from Harwich on 31 May with a fleet of fifteen vessels, in three divisions, headed by the Aid, Judith, and Thomas Allen, for the 'North-West parts,' and the fancied treasures of Meta Incognita. Taking a new route, he sailed down the Channel and along the Southern coast of England and Ireland, and sighted Cape Clear on 6 June. Hence he sailed north-west until the 20th, when he reached the south of Greenland, where he landed, and named it West England, giving the name Charing Cross to the last Cliff of which he had sight as he sailed past two days later. On 2 July the fleet sighted the islands off Meta Incognita, but could not proceed on account of the ice. After losing himself in the 'Mistaken Streight' (i.e., Hudson's) through no want of being warned by the more experienced Christopher Hall, master of the Aid, Frobisher anchored in the Countess of Warwick's Sound 31 July, where he found Fenton in the Judith, who arrived there ten days before him. Meanwhile Hall in the Thomas Allen was beating up in the open two or three of the other vessels which had lost their bearings in the storms and mist. After wasting nearly two months in finding the rendezvous and repairing damages there, the only results were the accidental discovery of a new strait by Frobisher, afterwards explored by Hudson, the further discovery of the upper part of Frobisher Bay by Best, and the loading of the soundest vessels with mineral that turned out to be worthless. The fleet sailed for England early in September, and arrived at various ports near the beginning of October.

"One curious fact of geographical interest in this voyage of 1578 remains to be noted. The Emmanuel Buss of Bridgwater, as she came homeward, to the southeast of Friesland (i.e., Greenland), discovered an island in lat. 57½° north, and sailed along the coast three days, 'the land seeming to be fruitful, full of woods, and a champaign country.' This island has been a source of perplexity to map-makers and navigators down to our day. It was doubtless an island, now submerged, a phenomenon by no means unknown in these regions, if we are to believe Ruysch, in his map of the 1507 Ptolemy." D.N.B.

Venice, 1586. £12 12s

* * * This was the product of three missions. The notes of Martin de Rada, or de Herrada, in the first expedition (along with Pedro de Sarmiento) in 1575, and those of Gonzalez de Mendoza on his mission of 1578, enabled the latter to write the Historia. A third journey in 1581, by Martin Ignacio de Loyola, furnished the Itinerario, which includes Mexico and the Philippines.

This Itinerario is very interesting. Fr. Ignacio on his voyage to China went via the Canaries and St. Dominique, from there he passed to Vera Cruz, across Mexico, between Mexico and Acapulco, and re-embarked from this port for the Philippines and China. Although brief, the account of the voyage is extremely interesting. He speaks of the Discovery of New Mexico by Ant. d'Espejo.

(Lima, 1604.) £210

THE ONLY COPY KNOWN OF ONE OF THE RAREST BOOKS ON AMERICA, PRINTED IN AMERICA PRIVATELY FOR THE AUTHOR TO PRESENT TO THE KING AND THE MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE INDIES.

The author gives a short glossary of Indian terms and a list of Indians who live with the Spaniards, or in their service. In the preface he states that he has been a rover throughout America. He has visited Peru, New Granada, Domingo, Porto Rico, Cuba, Jamaica, Mexico, New Andalusia, etc. He calls the King's attention to the fact that much silver and gold is being yearly exported from Mexico, Peru, and the Nuevo Reyno (de Granada) illegally without paying excise to the Crown. In the same way sugar and slaves are being dealt with in Porto Rico, Caracas, Jamaica, San Domingo, Cuba, etc., without paying excise to the King. Not only Spaniards are defrauding the Royal revenues, but English, French and Portuguese. He states that the whole of the mines were busy defrauding the King and that he lost 200,000 pesetas yearly in this manner from the mines alone. The state of disorganisation in the Spanish provinces was surpassing all belief. The author proposes to tell the King a secret by which he can multiply the riches coming from the Indies many times and add to their population. The author spent 37 years among the "Miserables Indios." He alleges that the Indians were terribly maltreated and murdered to enrich their Spanish taskmasters. He describes the means to obtain more than one million pesos yearly for the King in addition to what he was already receiving from Peru, without raising the taxes.

"The New World is improperly called America through the vain presumption of those who want to deprive Spain of what is right. It is certain that the first man who gave Columbus advice of the New World was Alonso Sanchez de Huelva, a sailor born in Huelva, who had crossed the ocean in a great storm. Father Joseph de Acosta mentions this fact, but does not mention his name, which is given by the Inca Lasso de la Vega. It was however known and notorious in the whole of Andalusia, and our historians should mention it. It was also a Spaniard who predicted the Discovery of the New World (Seneca in Medaeam verse 374), etc., etc."

He had edited "The Memorials" for him, stood by him to the last, and after his death went to Mexico, and appears to have returned in 1616. In 1618 he settled in Madrid. Eleven of his plays are known; Ticknor mentions them as being a mixture of what is sacred and what is profane.

THE MISADVENTURES OF A VICEROY OF MEXICO.

Folio, calf.

(Mexico), 1624. £31 10s

Very important document consisting of 25 leaves, and certainly printed in Mexico in 1624.

Don Diego Carillo de Mendoza y Pimentel, Marquis of Gelves, seventeenth Viceroy of Mexico, succeeded to his title in September, 1621; his nature was hard and he was subject to fits of temper. From the beginning of his rule he decided to clear the roads of the highwaymen with which they were infested. He disbelieved everything that was told him about the inundations to which the City of Mexico was subject, and in order to show that the height of the Lagoons could prevent the floods from taking place, he had the dykes of the Rio de Cuautitlan broken through. The river immediately covered the lagoons and was the cause that in December, 1623, at the time of the rains the town was inundated. The quarrels that he had with the Archbishop Juan Perez de la Serna caused the revolt to break out in the month of January, 1624, which obliged the Viceroy to seek refuge in the Convent of San Francisco, which he only left to re-embark for Spain at the end of the same year.

The Archbishop was recalled and named Bishop of Zamora.

This document is written in favour of the Archbishop. As soon as the Marquis de Gelves returned home he answered this Memorial with some Pamphlets of his own in 1625.

AN INVALUABLE WORK FOR THE HISTORY OF THE EARLIEST MISSIONS TO THE NEW WORLD.

(A small repair to blank of title and leaf 1, and last six lines of final leaf of index in facsimile.)

All editions of this important work are of extreme rarity. It contains some of the most valuable materials in existence for the history of the Spanish Conquest and settlements in America; as well as of the manners, language, and religions of the aborigines. Davila Padilla was born in Mexico in 1562, and had the fullest opportunities of obtaining authentic information. He is the earliest writer who mentions the establishment of Printing in the New World, and the fact that the Scala Cœli of St. Joannes Climacus translated by his namesake Juan de Estrada from the Latin version, was entitled to the distinction of being the first book printed in America (about 1535-6).

The author was made Archbishop of San Domingo in 1599 and died in 1604. He used as a source the manuscript of Fray Diego Duran, then unpublished.

Translation of this dedication reads as follows:—

TABLE OF THE CONTENTS OF THIS BOOK.

FIRSTLY, ON THE FIRST MAP THE PORTUGUESE SHOW THE DEMARKATION OF THE CONQUESTS BETWEEN THE TWO CROWNS (OF PORTUGAL AND SPAIN).

THIS IS THE MAP WHICH THE PORTUGUESE USUALLY SHOW AT THE CONGRESSES WHICH HAVE TAKEN PLACE AND TAKE PLACE BETWEEN CASTILLE AND PORTUGAL. IN ORDER TO CHEAT THE SPANISH MINISTERS THE PORTUGUESE MINISTERS MAKE USE OF THIS MAP, BECAUSE IN THIS SAID MAP THE PORTUGUESE HAVE INTRODUCED A DECEIT AND HAVE TAKEN AWAY THE LAND OF BRAZIL 100 LEAGUES MORE TO THE EAST FROM WHERE IT OUGHT TO BE. BY

THIS MEANS THEY INCLUDE IN THEIR DEMARCATION THE RIO DE LA PLATA, TO WHICH THEY HAVE NO RIGHT. BECAUSE IN THE DISTANCE WHICH THERE IS FROM THE IMMEDIATE COAST OF BRAZIL TO THE COAST OF MALAGUETA, IN GUINEA, ON THE SCALE OF THAT MAP THERE ARE 410 LEAGUES DISTANCE FROM ONE COAST TO THE OTHER. AND SO THE PORTUGUESE, BY SHOWING THIS MAP, TOWARDS THE WEST THEY USURP THE SAID 100 LEAGUES IN BRAZIL BY CAPE SAINT VINCENT CONSTITUTING THE MERIDIAN OF 360 DEGREES FROM THE EQUATOR THEY TAKE AWAY MORE THAN 8 DEGREES BECAUSE THESE SAID 8 DEGREES SHOULD BE MORE TO THE EAST, AND ALSO IT IS SEEN DISTINCTLY IN THIS FIRST MAP THAT THEY SHOW THE COAST OF BRAZIL, WHICH IN THE FIFTH MAP THEY SHOW DIFFERENTLY (FROM THE CAPE OF SAINT AUGUSTIN OF GUINEA AND MALAGUETA, THE SAID 450 LEAGUES), AND THE SECOND MAP SHOWS A GREATER DISTANCE, WITH LITTLE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE TWO COASTS, BECAUSE THE MAP WHICH IS CALLED SECOND MAP IS THE ONE WHICH IS IN THIS BOOK OF THE DEMARCATIONS BETWEEN THE TWO CROWNS, WHILE THE FIRST IS SUPPRESSED; AND THE ONE WHICH IS CALLED SECOND IS REALLY THE FIFTH MAP OF THIS BOOK IN WHICH THE PORTUGUESE PLACE THE COAST OF BRAZIL AND ETHIOPIC AFRICA WHERE THEY REALLY SHOULD BE.

THIS TRUTH IS EASILY SEEN BECAUSE THE DISTANCE WHICH THERE IS FROM THE RIO DE LA PLATA TO THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE IN THE FIRST MAP IS 1,100 LEAGUES, AND IN THE SECOND MAP (THE FIFTH IN THIS BOOK) THE PORTUGUESE SHOW THAT THERE ARE 1,200 LEAGUES FROM THE RIO DE LA PLATA TO THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE, WHICH WITH THE DIFFERENCE OF 100 LEAGUES ALREADY MENTIONED HAVE BEEN USURPED BY THE PORTUGUESE IN THEIR DEMARCATION OF THE RIO DE LA PLATA, WHICH IS REALLY 100 LEAGUES OUTSIDE THEIR LINE OF DEMARCATION.

THIS IS MANIFEST BY THE SAID MAPS WHICH HAVE BEEN MADE BY THE BEST MEN WHOM THE CROWN OF PORTUGAL COULD FIND, AND BY ITS ORDERS, AND WHICH WAS KEPT WITH ALL POSSIBLE SAFEGUARDS AS A BOOK OF ORIGINAL MAPS IN THE LIBRARY OF THE CITY AND ROYAL ARCHIVES OF LISBON, WHENCE IN 1681, TO SERVE HIS MAJESTY, CAPTAIN DON FRANCISCO SEIXAS Y LOVERA REMOVED IT TO SERVE HIS MAJESTY (USING INTELLIGENCES AND MONEY), AND HE FOUND ITS IMPORTANCE FOR THE CROWN OF SPAIN, BECAUSE IT IS AN ORIGINAL AND HAS THE MAPS OF ALL THE WORLD AND IS WRITTEN TRULY AND BY HAND. NOTHING OF IT HAS BEEN PRINTED UP TO THE PRESENT DAY, MOREOVER IT MUST HAVE COST MORE THAN 4,000 SILVER CROWNS TO MAKE, AND MANY YEARS WERE SPENT IN MAKING IT, AND FOR WHICH, AFTER THE REVOLT OF PORTUGAL, ITS OWNER, DON GERONIMO DE ATIAIDE, WAS REWARDED WITH ONE OF THE HIGHEST RANKS OF THAT KINGDOM, HE WHO HAD BEFORE BEEN THE COMMANDER OF THE NAVAL ARMADAS OF THE EAST INDIES.

WITH THIS BOOK CAPTAIN DON FRANCISCO DE SEIXAS Y LOVERA BEGS TO SERVE HIS MAJESTY, IN HIS ROYAL AND SUPREME COUNCIL OF THE INDIES. AT THE TIME THE PRESIDENT WAS THE MARQUES DE LOS VELEZ. THE BOOK WAS PRESENTED BY DON MANUEL GARCIA DE BUSTAMENTE, OF HIS MAJESTY'S COUNCIL, AND SECRETARY.

AT THE END OF THE SAME BOOK IS A MAP OF THE COAST AND ISLANDS OF THE AUSTRALIAN MAGELLANIC REGIONS, WHICH DON FRANCISCO DE SEIXAS HAS MADE FROM HIS PRACTICAL AND THEORETICAL OBSERVATIONS.

THE CONTENTS OF THIS BOOK HAVE BEEN GIVEN IN ORDER THAT HIS MAJESTY MAY USE IT IN THE CONGRESSES AGAINST PORTUGAL, AND MOREOVER THE ROYAL COUNCIL OF THE INDIES MAY KEEP THIS ORIGINAL SO AS TO RESOLVE THEIR DOUBTS ON MANY POINTS WHEN PEOPLE PRETEND TO KNOW WHAT IS UNCERTAIN. IN THIS WAY THE TRUTH WILL BE KNOWN AND HIS MAJESTY WILL BE BETTER SERVED, WHICH IS DESIRABLE BOTH IN SMALL AND GREAT MONARCHIES.

MADRID, 16TH APRIL, 1692, SIGNED DON FRANCESCO DE SEIXAS Y LOVERA.

DON FRANCESCO HAS ALSO SIGNED THE ADDITIONAL MAPS OF THE AUSTRALIAN MAGELLANIC REGIONS.

With finely engraved title by J. de Courbes.

Madrid, Viuda de Juan Goncalez, 1636. £25

The "question moral" is whether it is a mortal sin for ecclesiastics to drink chocolate before celebrating Mass. Tobacco is referred to in several places, and folios 36—42 are devoted to discussion as to whether tobacco may be smoked before Communion, as to the nature of tobacco, its use and names, and whether the use of tobacco breaks the fast.

Antonio de Leon was born in Peru, and studied at Lima. He was named "The Chronicler of the Indies," and is the author of the famous and very rare first American Bibliography ever printed (our No. 69).

The book is dedicated to the governor of the Indies, and the author mentions in his preface that he has investigated all the principal drinks which have been discovered in the world, especially in the New World of the Indies, that is, America. In his work Pinelo discusses all American drinks, used by the Indians in New Spain, Peru, Nicaragua. Guatamala. etc., etc. The author complains that the American Indians drink too much. He mentions 118 different drinks, not including mixed drinks.

Tavera No. 1244. "The most important document for the history of the commerce and the products of the Philippine Islands."

It contains at the end a resumé of the history of the Philippines.

Grau lays stress on four chief points; firstly, in what form and in what quantity there should be trade with the Philippine Islands. Secondly, if permission should be given to a larger extent than heretofore to send merchandise from the Philippines to Mexico and return the value thereof in silver. Thirdly, if the permission already given to send merchandise should apply to goods of Chinese provenance or only to native products of the country. Fourthly, if permission should be given anew for Peru to trade to Mexico because of the damage that the Philippines had suffered when this said trade had been suspended.

It is interesting to note in this connection that in 1593, by a Royal decree dated 11th January, the merchants of the Philippines were forbidden to go to China to buy merchandise.

We have been unable to trace another copy of this extraordinary rare Catechism in the language of the Guarani Indians, which is the name of the language spoken in a very large part of the South East portion of South America (Paraguay, Uraguay, Brazil); one of the dialects, the Tupi, has become the current language of Brazil, and it is called "Lingoa Geral do Brasil." Father Ruiz de Montoya, the celebrated missionary of Paraguay, was born at Lima in 1583, and entered the Order of Jesuits in 1606. He was sent to the missions where he converted more than 100,000 Indians.

This learned missionary died at Lima in 1652. He was a most active missionary and at the same time a most excellent linguist. Even Rodrigues was unable to add a copy of this book to his collection as the work is so rare.

RODRIGUES No. 1169. NOT IN THE CHURCH CATALOGUE.

Very interesting work which contains much valuable material for the history of the missions in South America, Asia, and the Orient in the 16th and early 17th centuries. There are many curious eulogies of these missionaries, Japanese, Portuguese, Spanish and Italian, and among them some of the most ardent propagators of Christianity among the Indians, such as José de Anchieta, Saint Francis Xavier, etc.

This is the only edition which has been published of this important Chronicle of the Jesuit Order, and it is this circumstance which partly explains the extreme rarity of copies. No copy of this work has appeared for sale for many years; even Pinto de Matos in his Manual of Portuguese Bibliography confessed that he had never seen a copy for sale.

The third part of the book is entirely devoted to Brazil from the first expedition of the six Jesuits who in 1549 accompanied Thome de Souza under the direction of Father Manoel da Nobreda.

EDWARD WINSLOW, the famous leader of the Pilgrim Fathers, was at this time in England getting Parliament to pass an Act for the Promoting and Propagation of the Gospel of Jesus Christ in New England.

This book is the Celebrated CAMBRIDGE PLATFORM, in which is embodied the ecclesiastical policy of New England Congregationalism.

The work was the result of the deliberations of the synod called in May, 1646, and continued by adjournment to August, 1648. "It is," says Dexter, "a terse, clear, and well-balanced summary of the general system which had been already outlined in the treatises of the New England Elders; enlarged by being carried to its logical conclusions on a few points which had never been fully developed." John Cotton, of whom Roger Williams wrote that the people of Massachusetts "could hardly believe that God would suffer Mr. Cotton to err," possibly had the largest agency in the preparation of this work, notwithstanding the fact that the original manuscript is in the handwriting of Richard Mather.

The First Edition, printed in Cambridge, 1649, sold at Auction in 1913, for $3425.00.

ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPT.

[114] PROMOTION OF TRADE IN ENGLAND.

A Manuscript of 86 pp.

Small 4to, limp vellum.

Circa 1675. £35

An interesting manuscript ending with the following: "The premises considered and redressed the people of England would recover their antient glory and greatness, and in short time be the highest and most powerful people in Europe." Etc.

It is a powerful treatise concerning the trade of Great Britain and the cause of its decline. The Author states how the Dutch have captured practically the whole of England's trade with Europe, even capturing the produce of our Colonies, and whereas formerly the Dutch had no manufactures they now manufacture in huge quantities woollen and other textile goods, which they export to all parts of the world.

The chief reason given for the rise of the Dutch is that we have allowed them to monopolize the fisheries, thus giving them encouragement to build ships, and the great number of their fishermen have enabled them to man a great Navy which has become a dominant power on the seas, and that they have allied themselves with the Princes of Germany " and so elevated with their vast armies and strength of their league, Germanie having in 200 years not been so united, that now, instead of seeking or designing a good peace, they discourse of nothing more than the ruine of France itselfe."

The Author further states that instead of seeking an alliance with Holland, we should have made alliance with France, " A peace between England & France may bee maintained, but betwixt England and Holland never, nor a peace long unlesse Holland and Zeeland would bee brought to another sort of regulation in Trade than they could ever yet be brought too."

The treatise deals with many very interesting details as to the amount and values of the Fisheries in various years, and of the textile goods. It further relates the aggression of the Dutch in the English Colonies in America and how in self defence we had to seize their Colony of New Amsterdam (now New York).

" In Onno 1601 several Merchants of Holland set out 17 Armatures for to seize, plunder and make prize of all Spanish ships and vessels in the West Indies or to burn and destroy any of the Spanish towns and villages in those parts, and for the better effecting their designe they received liberty of Queen Elizabeth to loan some harbour about the Island Manhattan, &c., betwixt the degree of 40 and 41 where they could finde the most convenient places for their cleaning and refitting their ships, here they built a large magazine for their purpose which they fortified with four bastions and called the place Statns Isle, settled 3 factories, one there, the 2nd on the south west point of the Manhattan Isle, where since was built New Amsterdam, a 3rd on a point of land called Pauls Hook, where they drove a very considerable trade with the Native Indians for several sorts of Furs, and made bold with the Queens Grace, so farr that they began a Colony there and called it New Netherlands, and in the year 1608 forced an English ship under the Command of our Capt. Smith to strike to the States flag, which King James, though a peaceable prince, so highly resented that he commissioned Sir Samuel Argal to sail thither with five men of war to destroy the said Colony, which was accordingly effected, and they engaged never to plant there again, and yet the West India Company of Holland in the year 1620 began a Colony there a second time, having made their position so strong in the English Court that they were not disturbed till the year 1664, at which time, such was the general complaint of the English Merchant, and also of the English Planters that live under their government, that although there was peace betwixt the Majties of Great Britain and the States of the United Provinces, His Maiesty commissioned Colonel Richard Nichols and some other gentlemen to dispossess the West Indian Company of the said Colony and to incorporate it into the English Monarchy as soon as the said ships arrived the Governor and Inhabitants quietly surrendered themselves and became subjects of England under the Government of His Highness the Duke of York."

" The great want of trade the English are reduced to, by the Hollanders having by fraud and deceit taken out of our mouths, and are in a fair way to have our plantations at their sole disposing also, for since the beginning of the Civil War, they have had at least, 2 parts of 3 of all the profits by Trade arising from the said Colonies, for demonstration, to Virginia since the year 1642, they of Holland and Zeeland, have sent, one year with another sixty sails of ships, I am informed from the said Colony have brought from thence 46000 hogsheads of Tobacco yearly. To Barbadoes they have employed above 40 sails of good ships to Christopher, 17 sails, to Nevis 12, to Antoga 8 and to Mon-soral 3 or 4 ships, to the damage in the total of ten millions of pounds sterling which the English nation would have had in the exchange of our commodity into these Colonies this eleven years. Etc., etc."

Freyre (Francisco de Brito). Viage da Armada da Companhia do commercio, e frotas do Estado do Brasil. A Cargo do General Francisco de Brito Freyre.

2 works in 1.

Lisbon, 1675. £42

These two works are of the greatest importance for the early history of Brasil when the Portuguese were in continual conflict with the Dutch, both armed and commercial. That the Portuguese were successful in maintaining their great South American Colony is greatly due to the prowess of General Brito de Freyre. He was twice Admiral of the Portuguese Fleet in Brasil and in 1654 he obliged the Dutch to evacuate Pernambuco. In 1656 he escorted 170 ships laden with a cargo of rich treasure from Brasil to Lisbon. It is this great achievement of which an account is given which is bound up in this volume.

This very rare work which Antonio had never seen is divided into ten books, of which the first is devoted to the history of the discovery of Brasil and of the first colonies which were founded there. The nine following books treat of the history of the war in Brazil against the Dutch from 1623-1638.

It is of great importance for the early history of California and New Mexico, in addition to its long descriptions, historical, geographical and religious, of the State of Mexico—particularly interesting is the paragraph in which the Author gives an account of the first book printed in Mexico in 1535—a book which is at present entirely lost.

The celebrated Dutch traveller remained nine years in Brazil, from 1640 to 1649, and has published many interesting and important documents for the history of the 1645 insurrection. The author is considered one of the best authorities on that period. He was the agent of the India Company and lived at Pernambuco, as a super cargo. After nine years in Brazil he returned to Holland and after the loss of Brazil he placed his services at the disposal of the East India Company. He was sent to China, governed Ceylon and returning to Holland he was again urged to go out again as his services were so much appreciated. He accepted the offer, but never to return, as he fell into the hands of the natives of Madagascar. His brother published the work.

Sus Principos, y Incrementos que oy tiene, con todas las cosas mas singulares de Pais, politica, y ritos de sus naturales, practica que se observa en su Reduccion, y otras cosas dignas de memoria.

Madrid, 1690. £105

Pages 112-160 of this work contain "Practica que ay en la Ensenança de los Indios, y un directiuo para que los Religiosos puedan commodamente instruirlos las cosas essenciales de la Religion Christiana."

This is a collection of the doctrines of the Roman Catholic Church in the language of the Indians of New Andalusia and New Barcelona.

At the end of the work are verses in the Indian language to celebrate Christmas.

THIS WORK IS OF THE GREATEST RARITY.

Father Mathias Ruiz Blanco was commissary and Apostolic preacher of the missions of Piritu, and was born at Estepa. He became professor of the Franciscan Order at Sevilla, in 1666. In 1670 he left as a missionary for active work in the missions of New Andalusia, Cumana, etc. He evangelised the Tharacudres Indians, founded the mission of St. John the Frangelist, and then went to the Topocuare Indians, where he founded another mission called San Lorenzo de Aguaricuar. In 1701 he returned to Spain, where he died about the year 1705. According to Father Caulin, in whose work we find these notices, Father Ruiz de Blanco composed several works relating to the history and languages of the Indians of these Provinces. All are lost with the exception of the above, "The Conversion de Piritu."

The Provinces of Cumana and New Andalusia are now called Venezuela, and the Cumanagota language was spoken by the Indians who dwelt on the borders of the Orinoco River

Small 4to, polished calf, g. e., by Riviere.
London, 1692. £18 18s

Winsor says John Cotton's "Way of the Congregational Churches" furnished him with a clue to the fact that the principal part of this book was written by Winthrop.

Welde arrived in Boston in 1632 and was immediately ordained a minister at Roxbury. He was associated with John Eliot and Richard Mather in the preparation of the "Bay Psalm Book."

"The Sweetness of Christian love is manifest in the sentences in which Mr. Welde gloats over Anne Hutchinson's banishment from Boston, and the massacre of herself and her family by the Indians. He considered that the Almighty had himself interposed to bring this punishment on her, for the gratification of the Saints of Boston."

A most interesting privately printed document. A Franciscan Missionary "Padre Predicador Fray Joseph de Cordova" of the Mission of the Provinces of "El Choco" in the New Kingdom of Granada, had been removed from his mission by Don Carlos de Alcedo y Sotomayor, on a charge of trading with the enemy and selling arms and clothes to them. Leclerc mentions the existence of this work, but never saw a copy.

Father Pedro Sebastian Cubero, celebrated traveller of the 17th century, was the first to go round the world from West to East, partly by land. He was sent by the Propaganda of Rome to evangelise Asia On his journey, which lasted nearly seven years, he crossed Germany, Hungary, Transylvania, Poland, Russia, Tartary, Persia, India. From Goa he took a boat to China. On his return to Europe, he visited the Philippines and returned to Vera Cruz to embark for Cadiz.

His relation is rare but the second part (the above volume) is far rarer than the first. His work is of great importance for the details contained therein on America, China, Russia and Poland, etc.

The Darien Scheme was the project of Wm. Paterson—the founder of the Bank of England—for a Scotch company with headquarters on the Isthmus of Panama, as a counterpart to the British East India Company. It was opposed by William III. and failed owing to the opposition of the Spaniards and the unhealthy climate.

London, 1704. £4 4s

* * * Colonel Lillingston was Lieutenant-Colonel of Colonel Ffoulkes's regiment of foot in the Martinique expedition in February to October, 1693. His brother Jarvis Lillingston, an officer of Gustavus Hamilton's (20th) foot, was made Major in Ffoulkes's, and died on the expedition. Colonel Ffoulkes also died on the expedition, and Luke Lillingston obtained the colonelcy. The expedition miscarried, and Lillingston's regiment was put on board the homeward-bound men-of-war at Newfoundland and Boston to supply the place of seamen. The regiment, 670 strong, was broken at Plymouth by order of Lord Cutts, and reformed with six hundred men of the regiment and six hundred of Colt, Norcott, and Farrington (29th foot), in December, 1694, and embarked as a reinforcement for Jamaica in January, 1695. That island, still suffering from the effects of the Port Royal earthquake of 1692, had been harried by buccaneering attacks from the French settlement in Hispaniola (St. Domingo). A naval squadron, under Captain Robert Wilmot, with Lillingston's troops on board, acting in concert with the Spaniards, took and destroyed the French port of Porto Paix, Hispaniola. Thereupon the English troops withdrew to Jamaica, and Governor William Beeston reported that Lillingston's regiment was so weak and sickly that he had to send them into the country for change of air. Lillingston went home to recruit, and made various claims on the Government. His regiment disappeared from the rolls on the peace of Ryswick, and he published this reply to Burchett's account of the Porto Paix business, to which Burchett issued a rejoinder.

Lisbon, 1709. £21

Very rare. The author states in the dedication to King John V., of Portugal, that he had been teaching among the Indians for 23 years. In the preface the author says that at first sight this work might appear useless in view of the fact that "another catechism in the same language had been published a few years before," but he demonstrates that there is a great deal of difference between the language of the Kariri Indians of the Rio San Francisco or Dzubucua Indians, of which he treats, and that of the Kariri-Kippea, for whose benefit the other catechism had been published. The Portuguese and Kariri are printed facing one another. The author was a French Capuchin missionary born at Nantes.

Ludewig calls these the Sabuja Indians and states that they live in the Province of Bahia, near Cocheira and now inhabit the village of Caranquejo and Villa de Pedro Branca.

Folio, calf.

Madrid, 1723. £16 16s

Fine copy of a rare work. Oviedo y Banos, born at Santiago de Leon, near Caracas, in Venezuela, composed his book with the help of ancient documents which were then still extant in the archives of Caracas. He was influenced by their bad state of preservation to write his history in order to save them from destruction. They have probably long since disappeared in the revolutions that have been a blight of that part of S. America. The first part only of this work was written and published.

THE GREAT HISTORY OF THE SPANIARDS IN AMERICA.

[161] HERRERA (Antonio de). Historia general de los hechos de los Castellanos en las Islas i Tierra-Fierme del Mar Oceano.

With 9 engraved title-pages and 14 maps.

8 vols. in 5, sm. folio, old calf.

Madrid, 1725-1730. £52 10s

Of the greatest importance for the history of the conquest, colonies and progress of the Spaniards in America. On the title-pages are the engraved portraits of the most famous missionaries, generals, governors, and soldiers who served in America during its conquest and occupation, views of America, etc.

This is the genuine best edition of the work, edited by the learned Barcia, which, although in preparation since 1725, did not appear till 1729. Another similar edition, in 4 vols., folio, with portraits, was brought out at Antwerp in 1728, one year previously, in haste, to forestall the work which Barcia had in hand, but of course it is an inferior production, disfigured with faults, and omitting the fourteen maps which are unavoidably necessary for the understanding of the description. It contains also so-called portraits of the Incas of Peru, which are merely copies of De Bry's fictitious engravings, while Bracia's edition gives the genuine designs which Herrera himself had used after the native pictures.

According to Perez Pastor (Imprenta en Madrid, nos. 784 & 1334) the 14 engraved maps are in many cases the first of many of the American provinces described, and the portraits of the conquistadores and other historical personages given on the title-pages are the most authentic that are known. More than half of the last volume is occupied by a remarkably full index (225 ff.), " Tabla general de las cosas notables y personas contenidas en la Descripcion de las Indias Occidentales, i en los 8 Decadas." In addition to the 8 Decadas, at the beginning of Vol. I., is Herrera's " Descripcion de las Indias Occidentales."

* * * Garcia's opinion, as opposed to the special theories of other writers, was that the American Indians drew their origin from various races of the old world, including Chinese and Tartars. But all his learning on this subject is of less value than the positive facts concerning the native tribes, which he drew partly from his own experiences in the New World, and partly from a MS. work by Juan de Vetanzos (one of the companions of Pizarro, and a man specially skilled in the native languages), which was in the possession of Garcia, and which has never been published. The libro ultimo of Garcia's wòrk contains the native Indian accounts of their origin, and is divided into sections which treat separately of the various distinct tribes of Mexico and Peru.

and begins with an account of the discovery of America by Columbus. The discoveries of Cortes, Cabral, Pizarro, and all the other famous adventurers are described till the year 1550, the last expedition described being the English expedition under Richarte Trebuli (Sir Richard Grenville).

There is an English translation published in English in 1601 under the title of "Discoveries of the World, written in the Portugall tongue by Antonie Galvano, corrected and now published in English by R. Hakluyt."

In this work is given a valuable chronological list of all the discoveries, ancient and modern, made down to the year 1550. The writer, who may be styled the founder of historical geography, spent the early part of his life in the East Indies, where he distinguished himself in an expedition which reduced the Moluccas to Portuguese rule. The original edition was so rare even in Hakluyt's time that he says he could never get a sight of a copy.

The third volume, "Missions of China and Japan," especially is of extreme rarity; very few copies of the work have ever reached Europe. The work possesses an American as well as an Asiatic interest, because of the constant shifting of the missionaries from one to another seat of labour. The names of Mexico, Guatemala, Paraguay, etc., are thickly studded through the pages. Volumes I. and II. contain the History of the Franciscan Order in the Philippines from their foundation till 1741. It is one of the most important chronicles relating to the Philippines, China and Japan.

The work was undertaken at the instance of the Society for the Encouragement of Learning, and printed at its expense. Keith depended almost entirely for his information on Beverley, and brings the narrative down to 1723. The author was governor of Virginia from 1717-1726. Jefferson says: "He is agreeable enough in style, and passes over events of little importance. Of course he is short, and would be preferred by a foreigner."

Father Anchieta was born on the island of Teneriffe in 1533. He went to the University of Coimbra, and at the age of eighteen he joined the Jesuit Order. In 1553 he left for San Vicente, where Father Nobriga was in residence. He then left via Rio for Bahia, where he was ordained Priest in 1566. There he became a friend of Ignacio de Azevedo, who in 1570, with 39 other Monks, was murdered by pirates near the Isle of Palms. Anchieta was sent to Bahia, where he founded a College; later he became Director of the College of San Vicente, and at a later date Provincial of Brazil. He specially devoted himself to missions to the Indians and obtained marvellous results, whence he was named "The Apostle of Brazil." He died in 1597 at the age of 64, of which he had spent 46 years in the service of the Jesuit Order.

Father Gumilla was sent at an early age to the American missions. While acting as a missionary he studied the history of the countries which he was evangelising. As Superior of the missions of the Orinoco he visited the banks of this great river as far as the obstacles allowed which he met at every step. In 1738 he became director of the College of Carthagena, but left in the same year for Spain. It was at Madrid that he finally wrote his celebrated work, which he based on the manuscripts of Fathers Mercado and Ribera. Father Gumilla returned to America where he died.

* * * The first London Edition and exceedingly rare

This work, New York's first contribution to science, was written by Lieutenant-Governor Cadwallader Colden, and is the first draft of chapters 1 and 2 of his larger work Principle of Action in Matter, which appeared in London, 1752. The work excited much comment at the time of its publication.

Colden, one of the first of American scientists, was a friend of Linnaeus and Franklin, and was also prominent in political life, being Acting Governor of New York during the Stamp Act agitation, at which time he was burned in effigy in Bowling Green.

The work seems to have become scarce as early as 1786, for in January of that year Mr. Jefferson, writing to Francis Hopkinson, observes:—"Many, many years ago, Cadwallader Colden wrote a very small pamphlet on the subjects of Attraction and Impulsion, a copy of which he sent toMonsieur de Buffon. He was so charmed with it that he put it into the hands of a friend to translate, who lost it. It has ever since weighed upon his mind, and he has made repeated trials to have it found in England. But in vain. He applied to me. I am in hopes if you write a line to the booksellers of Philadelphia to rummage their shops, that some of them will find it. Or perhaps some of the careful old people of Philadelphia or New Jersey may have preserved a copy. Whether Hopkinson was successful does not appear."

[217] DOUGLASS (William). A Summary, Historical and Political, of the First Planting, Progressive Improvements, and Present State of the British Settlements in NORTH-AMERICA.

Large Folding Map. 2 vols., 8vo, original calf.

Boston, New-England, Printed: London, re-printed for R. Baldwin, 1755. £5 5s

* * * "This Historical Summary concerning the British Continent plantations in North America, we published in loose sheets by way of pamphlet; which in their nature are temporary, and soon lost; but as it is generally well received, that it may be more permanent, we publish it in two large octavo volumes."

Vol. I., part 1, contains general affairs, viz., some account of ancient and modern colonies, the first grants and settling of our continent colonies and West-India Islands, and the adjoining French and Spanish settlement. Vol. I., part 2, contains, 1, The Hudson's-bay company's settlements, and their fur and skin trade. 2, Newfoundland cod-fishery. 3, The province of Nova Scotia; the vicissitudes under the British and French jurisdictions. 4, The several grants united by a new charter in the province of Massachusetts-bay.

Vol. II., concerning the other British provinces of North-America, viz., New-Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut, East and West Jersies, Pensylvania, Maryland, and Virginia. Throughout is interspered several miscellaneous affairs, such as the natural history, the distempers at times epidemical, and the endemial diseases, with their paper currencies.

The writer acknowledges that in the affair of Commodore Knowles's impress in the harbour of Boston, Nov. 1747, there was somewhat of passionate warmth and indiscretion, merely in affection to Boston, and country of New-England, his altera patria; but not with rancour or malice, having no personal acquaintance with Mr. Knowles; therefore from common fame, he only narrates his peculiar temper, his severity in discipline, and not so much regard as some other sea commanders have for the mercantile interest, by impressing their men, when he thought the public service required it: his courage is not questioned; the insinuation concerning his personal courage has been construed amiss; the refusing of challenges from masters of merchant ships, whose men he had impressed, is no slur.

The writer declares that he had no other intention, than by setting the affair in a strong light, to contribute towards extending to the continent colonies, particularly to New-England, a late act of parliament against impressing of sailors in the sugar West-India Islands. Therefore as this affair was temporary, of no use, and may give offence, it is suppressed in the present publication of this first volume of the Summary. Admiral Knowles since he sail'd from Boston, has been happy in successful expeditions, particularly in reducing the fort of Port-Louis of Hispaniola, and in beating a superior Spanish squadron off the Havannah.

MONTCALM'S RELATION.

[219] MONTCALM (Louis Joseph). Relation de la prise des Forts de Choueguen, ou Oswego; & de ce qui s'est passé cette année en Canada.

Small 4to, new boards.

(Grenoble, Cuchet), 1756. £52 10s

The Original Issue of this almost unique pamphlet, of which only one other Copy is known, viz., that in the Church Library, and which was found by Henry Harrisse among some others relating to Canada, printed at Grenoble by Cuchet, between the years 1754 and 1760, which seemed sufficient evidence for attributing the work to his press.

This very important relation gives an account of the most important military event of 1756. Oswego was a strong strategic point between the French and English settlements. Commanding the fur trade as it did, its possession was of vital importance to the French. In August, Montcalm suddenly appeared before the place, and on the 14th it fell into his hands. The French took 16,400 prisoners and 113 pieces of cannon, five war vessels on the lake, etc. After destroying the fortifications Montcalm returned to Fort Carillon. He wrote to the minister of war,"Les dispositions que j'avois arreties sont si fort contre les regles ordinaires que l'audace qui à été mise dans cette entreprise doit passer pour temerité en Europe."

This attack and capture was one of the boldest undertakings of the war, gave great encouragement to the French, and produced the greatest effect in France; hence this plaquette.

The work gives an account of the Spanish expedition sent out by order of Philip III., immediately after the return of Schouten's expedition, for the exploration of the Magellan Straits. The brothers Nodal sailed from Lisbon on 27th December, 1618, and did not return until July 9 of the following year. They had with them two Dutch pilots, Jan de Witte, named in the narrative, and Valentine Jansz, who wrote another account of the same voyage, which is preserved in the Archives of the Hague. They had both been with Schouten on his voyage. The Strait Le Maire was re-christened Saint Vincent, which name it retained for some time on Spanish maps.

The map accompanying this work is supposed to have been suppressed. It enters more into detail than that of Le Maire.

This work is the first history of New York. The author was graduated from Yale College in 1745, became a distinguished lawyer of New York, and later was Chief Justice of the Province. Being a Loyalist during the Revolutionary War, after the contest was over he moved to Canada, where he was also appointed Chief Justice. This work as published brought the history of the Colony down to the year 1736. In it the writer anticipates some of the events of the war from 1754-60, which took place while he was writing it.

I. Of the Origin and Design of Government in general, with Concise Remarks on the English Constitution.

II. Of Monarchy and Hereditary Succession.

III. Thoughts on the present State of American Affairs.

IV. Of the present Ability of America, with some miscellaneous Reflections.

Written by an ENGLISHMAN.

76 pp., small 8vo, calf.

Philadelphia, Printed and Sold by R. Bell, 1776. £3 3s

Paine met Franklin in London, and was persuaded by him to emigrate to America. He settled in Philadelphia in 1775, where in the following year, at the suggestion of Dr. Benjamin Rush, he wrote and published this work, for which the legislature of Pensylvania voted him £500. The work was so successful that it went through several editions in Philadelphia and the other Colonies, not less than 100,000 copies of it being sold.

It was written for the purpose of inducing the British colonists of America to renounce the sovereignty of the King and declare their independence. The American editions contain reflexions on the King and Government of Great Britain, which were omitted in the English editions.

First Edition. Thick 4to, old calf.

London, 1787. £5 5s

This book has great value, especially because it contains many documents that cannot be found elsewhere without great labour. Portions of the work are trustworthy; but as a narrative it is spoiled by the vanity of the author, who distorts events in order to place his own services in a favourable light.

The work begins with D'Estaing's Fruitless Attack on Savannah in the Autumn of 1779, and proceeds with great minuteness of detail to give the military events of the Carolinas and Virginia down to the surrender of Cornwallis at York Town, October 19, 1781.

The history is in general a compilation of the official letters of the British officers both in the sea and land service, and of the American and French commanders, which had appeared in the newspapers; together with Lord Rawdon's campaign, from the "Remembrancer" and "Annual Register."

Tarleton's unjust discriminations and criticisms called forth a caustic review by McKenzie, who in turn was answered by George Hanger.

The Church Catalogue only knew of copies in the British Museum, John Carter Brown and Lenox Libraries.

With a folding map of the Province of Santa Marta.

Madrid, 1787. £7 10s

The work is divided into three parts of which the first deals with the wealth and commerce of the province of Santa Marta, the second is devoted to the Indian tribes (Indios Tayronas, Arnacos, Tupes, Chimilas, Motilones, Guagiros), of that province; the third deals entirely with the ports and rivers.

The fourteenth discurso relates to the Guagira language. The author says that it is clear, short and sonorous, and it appears to him to be the best American-Indian language. He states that he had a dictionary of this tongue in his possession, given him by a cleric, a brother of the Cacique Don Cacilio.

The province of Santa Marta is situated in new Granada. It is one of the four provinces which were originally formed out of the Columbian district of Magdalena.

life were spent among the tribes of the Orinoco. "Precieux pour la multitude de renseignements qu'il renferme" Brasseur de Bourbourg.

Father Gumilla was sent at an early age to the American missions. While acting as a missionary he studied the history of the countries which he was evangelising. As Superior of the missions of the Orinoco he visited the banks of this great river as far as the obstacles allowed which he met at every step. In 1738 he became director of the College of Carthagena, but left in the same year for Spain. It was at Madrid that he finally wrote his celebrated work, which he based on the manuscripts of Fathers Mercado and Ribera. Father Gumilla returned to America where he died.

The first volume of the history contains the geographical description of the course of the Orinoco and remarks on the customs and usages of the Indian tribe living on its banks.

Folio, half morocco. £16 16s

San Miguel; Cape Froward; Glacier in Maria Cove; Esplanade in Calcutta; Caun Island; Gulf of Nicona; Sandwich Islands; Cape Pillar; Etc., etc., and three Maps showing the track "from Calloa to Panama and Guatinolo," "South American Chart, from Rio to Valparaiso and Calloa," and "North Chincha Island."

At the beginning of the volume are four coloured plans of "Transverse Section of the Boat," "Upper and Lower Decks," and "Plan of Holds Engine and Store Room"; with minute and carefully-executed measurements to each.

The "Pearl," the first of a new class of 21 gun corvettes, was commissioned in 1885 by Captain Sotheby, and was armed with the prospect of a Baltic Expedition, but the Russian war being over, she was fitted out for a long foreign voyage.

In 1856 she sailed for the Pacific, calling at Madeira, Rio de Janeiro, and passing through the Straits of Magellan, Sandwich Isles, arrived at Valparaiso, and from there sailed on to Chincha Island, and finally reached the China Seas.

The "Pearl" was then ordered to proceed with the "Shannon" for Calcutta, and there took part in the great Indian Rebellion.

Very soon the "Pearl's" Naval Brigade, of 175 men and officers, landed, and fought in conjunction with the Goorkha and Sikh Forces, a diary of which occurs in the Log Book, with remarks, etc., Camp Captangunga, Camp Dumvoreahgunga, Camp Bustee, etc., etc.

When peace was declared the Naval Brigade marched to Allahabad and then on to Calcutta, where they were entertained in the Town Hall.

The homeward voyage was made via Madras, and Trincomalee and the Cape, arriving at Plymouth in June, 1859.

* * * Accompanying this Log Book is a copy of The Cruise of the "Pearl" round the World by Rev. A. Williams; with an account of the operations of the Naval Brigade in India. 8vo, cloth. London, 1859.

8vo, half roan.

Reprint of one of the most important works on the early history of California.

Of considerable importance to the Californians. Some passages make it appear that the writer was identical with the Jesuit Jose Ortega, who published a Cora Dictionary at Mexico in 1732; but the prologue shows that he incorporated in a continuous narrative the reports of others besides himself. He laboured for thirty years in Lower California, and in the regions between the Colorado and the Gila rivers; he had the use of the MS. papers of Eusebio Kino in which "estan coordenados sus viajes, empressas, y descubrimientos." The account which he gives of Kino's life and labours contains references to monumental remains of earlier inhabitants in those regions, and is the chief source of biographical information concerning that distinguished geographer. It forms one of the three libros into which the book is divided. The author enlarges upon purely historical events and anthropological facts to a greater degree than most theological writers.

Martin Behaim has been credited with having greatly advanced the art of navigation, and with having made extensive voyages of discovery under the flag of Portugal, but is best known as the author of a remarkable globe which he was making at Nuremberg while Columbus was crossing the American Ocean in search of the riches of the east. Schedel in the famous Nuremberg Chronicle gives us Behaim's own version of a voyage along the west coast of Africa, stating that the King of Portugal, Juan II, sent in 1483 James Canus, a native of Portugal, and Martin Behaim of Nuremberg, with some galleys to Ethiopia; that they went to the Southern Sea, near the coast, and after crossing the line, reached the New World, when they happened to look towards the East, their shadow, at noon, appeared on the right; that in that region they discovered lands, heretofore unknown, which had not been searched after by any people for many years, except the Genoese, and that in vain; finally, that after a navigation of twenty-six months they returned to Portugal; and in proof of their discovery brought pepper and grana paradisi, thus claiming the honour of the Discovery of the New World claimed for Martin Behaim.

(A.) AUSTRALASIA.

The Discovery of the Australasian Archipelago as related by De Quiros in his Memorials to the King of Spain, A.D. 1609-1613.

(See Items Nos. 567 to 572; Pages 5 to 12.)

The voyage of Quiros was the first event in the story of Antarctic enterprise. Its object was the discovery of the Southern Continent and the annexation of the South Pole. It was the dream of an enthusiast. It was a failure, but not altogether a barren failure. Others of another nation were to follow up his idea, but he opened the glorious record of Antarctic discovery. Captain Cook made known the Southern Continent imagined by Quiros, and actually seen by Torres. Captain Cook first crossed the Antarctic circle, and searched all round it for the supposed coast-lines of Quiros. Great communities were to arise in the Southern Continent, in Australia and New Zealand, but not of Spanish race. The achievements of the peoples of the Iberian peninsula were of vast importance to the world; but they came to an end with the voyage of Quiros. The mantle of discovery fell on other shoulders.

Pedro Fernandez de Quiros was born at Evora, in Portugal, in 1565. In 1595 he accepted the post of chief pilot in the ship of Alvaro de Mendana, who had received a concession to colonize the Solomon Islands, which he had discovered thirty years before. The expedition culminated at the Island of Santa Cruz, a new discovery, with the slaughter of the old Camp-Master, the deaths of Mendana, and his brother-in-law Don Lorenzo, the succession of the widow, Dona Isabel, to the command of the expedition, and the disastrous voyage to Manilla. Quiros brought a sinking ship, with rotten spars and rigging, safely over an unknown Sea from Santa Cruz to Manilla. It was during this voyage, and while gaining experience in the navigation of the Pacific Ocean and the treatment of natives, that Quiros conceived his grand project. He was a cartographer, and, in studying existing maps, he saw a great Southern continent extending across the ocean, from the Strait of Magellan to New Guinea. He thought that here was a discovery as famous as had been made by Columbus or Da Gama. Another great continent extending to the South Pole to be added to the dominions of his sovereign, with millions of souls to be saved and brought within the fold of the Church. He devoted his life to the realisation of this glorious dream with unswerving devotion, undaunted by difficulties or wearisome delays to his dying day; literally killed by Councils and Committees; but succumbing only with his last breath. He became a man with one idea.

The Duke of Cesa, Spanish Ambassador at Rome, was so much interested in Quiros's project that he assembled the most eminent geographers to examine and report to him upon it. The Duke introduced him to the Pope Clement VIII and they gave him letters of recommendation to the Spanish Government. Quiros arrived at Madrid in 1602, and had interviews with King Philip III. Within a year he had obtained a royal order, addressed to the Viceroy of Peru, instructing that dignitary to fit out two ships at Callao, to enable Quiros to undertake an expedition for the discovery of the Antarctic continent.

Quiros sailed for Peru in the summer of 1603. He was shipwrecked near Curaçoa, in the West Indies, and had to pass some time at Caraccas. Quiros arrived at Lima quite destitute, owing to the refusal of the royal officials on the route to give him any pecuniary assistance, although they had positive orders to do so. He found shelter in the house of a potter; and it was some days before he could get an audience of the Count of Monterey, who was then Viceroy of Peru. Eventually the Viceroy recognised the necessity for carrying out the royal orders. Vessels were tardily bought and fitted out at Callao, for the expedition of Quiros, in the last months of 1605. There were two ships and a launch. The ship chosen for Quiros was called the Capitana, and named San Pedro y San Pablo. She was 150 tons. The other ship was called the Almiranta, 120 tons. They carried one hundred and thirty men and six friars.

Luis Vaez de Torres, the second in command under Quiros, was a good sailor and pilot, an energetic and capable leader, and loyal to his chief. But his most faithful and devoted friend was young Luis de Belmonte Bermudez. Born at Seville in about 1585, this youth had gone out to seek his fortune, first in Mexico and then at Lima. Fired by the stories told him of the Araucanian war in distant Chile, he composed a panegyric on the youthful deeds of the Marquis of Canete, the first product of his muse. (See item No. 573 in this Catalogue).

Quiros complained bitterly of the delay in fitting out the expedition, which obliged him to sail so late in the year. He considered that he should have sailed not later than the 4th of October. He did not obtain his despatch until the 21st of December.

Quiros came to a fatal decision to alter his course. He adds in one of his Memorials that winter was approaching, that there was a mutinous spirit among his crew, that he was ill in bed. If Quiros had continued on his course he would have discovered New Zealand, and his dream would have been partly realized.

Quiros fortunately came upon Toumaco, the principal Island of what is now called the Duff group. Here he found a native chief from whom he received such detailed information respecting the distance of islands, and, as was understood, even Continental lands to the southward, that the most sanguine hopes appeared to be approaching realisation. The project of going to Santa Cruz was abandoned, and Quiros steered south, fully anticipating the consummation of his dreams of discovery. Nor was he destined to be altogether disappointed. Island after island, all lofty and thickly inhabited, rose above the horizon; and at last he sighted such extensive coast-lines that he believed the Southern Continent to be spread out before him. The Islands of the New Hebrides Group, such as Aurora, Leper, and Pentecost, overlapping each other to the south east, seemed to him to be continuous coast-lines, while to the south west was the land which he named Austrialia del Espiritu Santo. All appeared to his vivid imagination to be one continuous Continental land. The vessels anchored in the Port of Vera Cruz, on the southern extreme of the great Bay of St. Philip and St. James. He had found the largest Island of what Captain Cook named the New Hebrides Group, yet not a very large island. He showed his belief by his grandiose proceedings. There was a ceremony of taking possession in the names of the Church, of the Pope, and of the King. Quiros took possession of "All this Region of the South, as far as the Pole, which from this time shall be called Austrialia del Espiritu Santo, with all its dependencies for ever, and so long as right exists," in the name of King Philip III. A great city was to be founded and named "The New Jerusalem," and its river was to be the Jordan. All the municipal and royal officers were nominated, and a knightly order of Espiritu Santo was instituted, subject to confirmation by the King. There were processions, religious dances, High Masses and fireworks.

The great navigator had two serious drawbacks in his rejoicing. He was disabled by a serious illness; and the natives, owing to the misconduct of the Spaniards, were persistently hostile. After being at anchor in this Port of Vera Cruz, from the 3rd of May to the 8th June, 1606, the little fleet sailed with the object of completing the discovery of the Southern Continent.

Then came the catastrophe. It came on to blow hard and it was resolved to return to the anchorage. Quiros was in despair; at last he determined to make for Santa Cruz. It was resolved to cross the line and make for Acapulco; a four months' voyage. Quiros bewailed his position, but consoled himself with the reflection that his return would at least enable him to make known his discovery, and to urge upon the King, and his Councils, the importance of completing them. He also felt confident in Torres, his second in command, who was left behind, on board the Almiranta. Quiros hoped his discoveries would be continued by Torres, and he rejoiced when some years afterwards he received the news of the successful voyage of Torres.

After waiting for some days for the Capitana with Quiros on board, Torres continued his voyage and discovered the Bay and Islands at the East end of New Guinea. He discovered Basilisk Island, Jenkins Bay, and China Strait (all later re-discovered by Morsby). He also discovered the Port of Monteray, on the south coast of New Guinea. From Triton Bay Torres proceeded to Ternate, whence he continued his course to Manilla. His letters to Quiros (PRINTED BY QUIROS FOR THE FIRST TIME IN HIS SEVENTH EXTANT MEMORIAL TO THE KING, NO. 568 IN OUR CATALOGUE), and to the King, from that place, are dated June and July, 1607.

Quiros landed at Acapulco, was very coldly received by the officials at Mexico, and reached Madrid on the 9*th of October,* 1607. He was quite destitute. He only had two maravedis, which he gave to a beggar. But his faithful young Secretary remained true to him. During the first eleven days, he had not money to buy ink or paper. He wrote his first Memorial on the flyleaves of a pamphlet. He got the money for printing it by selling his clothes. To print the second, he sold his bedding; for the third, he pawned the royal banner under which he had taken possession of Espiritu Santo. After seventeen months of extreme penury, the King granted him 500 ducats.

Quiros tells us that he sent in fifty memorials in fifty months. Of these, eight have been preserved (For two additional ones, hitherto unknown, see Nos. 570 and 571 of this Catalogue). The first was written in 1607. He describes the events of the voyage, and makes excuses for altering course when he had reached 26° S., and for having parted company with Torres. He explains his view that the Antarctic continent runs from Espiritu Santo S.E. to Magellan Strait, a land of vast extent; "a new world." He says that he gave the name of "Austrialia del Espiritu Santo" from His Majesty's title of Austria.

Worn out by delays and obstruction, he gladly accepted the promise to give him command of a new expedition. Ignorant of the contra-des-pacho, he put his trust in the honour of the new Viceroy of Peru, Don Francisco de Borja, with whom he proceeded on the voyage to Peru, accompanied by his wife and two children. He thought that at length his grand ideas were to be realised. Fortunately, he was saved from being undeceived by a timely death at Panama on his way out. He died at the age of fifty, driven to his grave by Councils and Committees. His faithful Secretary, Belmonte Bermudez, who had edited the Memorials for him, stood by him to the last.

THE DISCOVERY OF THE MARQUESAS ISLANDS AND THE ISLE OF SANTA CRUZ BY DE MENDANA AND DE QUIROS.

[567] MORGA (Antonio de). Sucesos de las Islas Philipinas.
With finely engraved title shewing a view of the Philippine Islands.
4to, old calf. Mexico, 1609.
(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. I.). £250

This is the original issue of De Morga's work on the Philippine Islands, Moluccas, Siam, Cambodia, China, and Japan, at the close of the 16th century. It is extremely rare, and there is no copy of it in the National Library, Paris. The catalogue of the Grenville Library in the British Museum states that "This book, printed in Mexico, is for that reason probably, unknown to bibliographers, though a book of great rarity." In the Dialogo Cortesano Philipino of Father Joseph Torrubia, published in Madrid, 1736, the Inhabitant of the Court of Madrid says, that he has not heard of such a book nor of the author; the Philippine Spaniard answers him that the book was printed in Mexico in 1609, and is now scarcely to be found, but that he possesses a copy; and he describes De Morga as a man in whom arms and science were united in a most friendly manner, and says that he composed his book from original documents, since he was the first Auditor of the Audiencia of Manilla.

De Morga is less remarkable for his literary merits than for his qualities as a jurist and administrator and a commander. His book is rather an historical than a geographical work, but the account of Alvaro De Mendana's second voyage by his pilot Fernandez de Quiros, given by De Morga, is of great importance.

On the voyage Mendana and Quiros discovered the Marquesas Islands and the Island of Santa Cruz.

The Philippines had a great advantage over the British colonies (according to the Hon. H. E. J. Stanley, in his translation of De Morga's book published for the Hakluyt Society), in the active co-operation of the Monks, who were not very numerous, but rather were insufficient in number for the work they had to do.

Tavera No. 1776. The only copies known to Tavera were in the British Museum, National Library, Madrid, Private Library of the King of Spain, and a copy in the Academy of History, Madrid.

The seventh extant Memorial.

HITHERTO ONLY ONE COPY OF THIS MEMORIAL HAS BEEN KNOWN. IT WAS THE COPY IN THE PRIVATE LIBRARY OF THE KING OF SPAIN, WHICH WAS REPRINTED BY ZARAGOZA IN 1890 AS "ADDICION Q", IN HIS "HISTORIA DEL DESCUBRIMIENTO DE LA REGIONES AUSTRIALES HECHO POR EL GENERAL PEDRO FERNANDEZ DE QUIROS."

THIS, THE SEVENTH EXTANT MEMORIAL, IS, ACCORDING TO QUIROS, THE FIFTIETH THAT HE WROTE, IT IS MUCH THE LONGEST. IT BEGINS BY RECAPITULATING THE CONTENTS OF HIS EIGHTH AND SIXTEENTH MEMORIALS, AND IN IT HE MAKES PROPOSALS FOR COLONIZING THE NEW CONTINENT; HE HERE COMPARES HIMSELF TO COLUMBUS, DA GAMA, AND MAGELLAN. IT ALSO CONTAINS AN INTERESTING REPORT BY HERNANDO DE LOS RIOS, THE PROCURATOR OF THE PHILIPPINES, OF A VOYAGE TO NEW GUINEA, BY A PORTUGUESE NAMED MIGUEL ROXO DE BRITO; ALSO AN EXTRACT FROM A LETTER RECEIVED BY QUIROS, FROM HIS SECOND IN COMMAND, TORRES (THE DISCOVERER OF THE TORRES STRAITS), DATED, JUNE 15TH, 1607; AND A REPORT BY RUY GONZALEZ DE SEQUEIRA, THE GOVERNOR OF THE MOLUCCAS. QUIROS REPEATS HIS PROPOSALS AND AGAIN DWELLS ON THE IMPORTANCE OF THE INTENDED DISCOVERIES.

After a preliminary appeal to the King, Quiros begins as follows:—"The greatness of the newly discovered lands (judging from what I saw, and from what Luis Vaez de Torres, the Admiral under my command, wrote to your Majesty and to me), is well established. Its length is as much as all Europe, and Asia Minor, as far as the Caspian, with all the islands of the Mediterranean and the Ocean which encompasses. That hidden part is one fourth of the world, and of such capacity that double the kingdoms of which your Majesty is at present the Lord, could fit into it, and this without any neighbourhood of Turks or Moors, or others of the nations which are prone to cause disquiet and unrest on their borders.

"All the lands that were seen fall within the Torid Zone, and a part of them touch the Equator, the latitude of which may perhaps go as far as 90 degrees, others somewhat less; and if they turn out as they promise, there will be lands that are Antipodal to the greater part of Africa, to the greater Asia, to all Europe, and to Florida. I would remark that the lands I saw in 15° are much better than Spain (as will be seen presently), and that others should be an earthly paradise.

"The population is numerous, the colours of the people are white, black, tawny, shades of Mulattos, Indians, and crosses of one and the other. Some have their hair black, thick and loose, others have it twisted and curly, others ruddy and fine: these differences being indicative of much intercourse and commerce. For the above reason as well as owing to the excellence of the land, and because up to the present date we were in no hurry to go there, also because they do not work in silvermines, and do other hard work for ourselves, and for many other reasons, it is to be believed that these people are very numerous; but they do not know any kind of art, fortified places, nor army, kings nor law; being nothing more than simple heathens, divided into tribes, and with little friendship between them. Their arms are bows and arrows without (poisonous) herbs, clubs, sticks, lances, and wooden darts. It is a decent people, clean, cheerful and reasonable, and so grateful have I found them that there is reason to hope that with the aid of Divine providence, and by gentle means, it will be very easy to pacify, to indoctrinate, and to content them. These three measures are very necessary in the beginning, that afterwards all may walk towards those Holy ends they ought to seek, in great or small things, with all the verities.

"Their houses are of wood and roofed with palm leaves. They make much use of mother-of-pearl shells for chisels, planes, saws; while they wear large and small plates of it round their necks. They do not know what riches they possess, and value highly articles of our own make, such as knives, beads, mirrors, and such like. They have their boats well made, and sufficient for passing from one island to another, which they can see, or which they estimate to be a day or two days off. All this is an indication of a civilized people."

He next describes the fruits, trees and vegetables, flesh, food, and fish. He also describes the silver, pearls, gold and spice. "The industry of the Spaniards in raising the native products will make the products of this country better and more profitable than what is raised in Peru or New Spain. Altogether this land will be made so rich that it alone will suffice to supply America, and to enrich Spain. The natives are not to be looked upon as having our needs, tastes and desires, nor our estimation of things; but as men who seek, with the least work possible to pass their lives, not to tire themselves about the rest of the things which tire us."

He then describes the Bay of St. Philip and St. James and the Port of Vera Cruz:—"At break of day, and afterwards, we found great harmony, caused by millions of different sorts of little birds, like nightingales, thrushes, larks, linnets, millions of swallows, paroquets and parrots, which were seen. We smelt many odours of flowers, like orange flowers, from which I judged that the climate was mild.

"Here may presently be built a very great and popular city, whose inhabitants will enjoy the above mentioned commodities and riches, as well as those which my small imagination is unable to set forth, and those which time will show. They can keep up communication with the Provinces of Chili, Peru, Panama, Nicaragua, Guatamala, New Spain, the Moluccas and the Philippines; of all of which lands your Majesty is lord.

"I do not exaggerate if I say that it can maintain and accommodate two hundred thousand Spaniards, in fine that is the world of which Spain is the centre, and so far as it is a body, this is the nail. This point should be well considered.

"I well believe by the prudent counsel, magnanimity, and Christian piety of your Majesty, that, with much care, the matter will be considered touching the settlement of those important lands now discovered; the principal obligation being not to leave them desert, but to make this the means of making our Lord God known in all of them, believed in, worshipped, and served, as now the Devil is served. Also this has to be the door by which so many people charged by your Majesty, have to enter for good, and to avoid the cares that would arise if enemies of the Roman Church should come to show their false doctrines and convert all the blessings I have set forth into great evils, and call themselves lords of the Indies.

"If his conjectures made Cristobal Colon pertinacious, they make me as importunate respecting what I saw and felt and what I offer; for which may your Majesty command that such order may be taken as will enable the enterprise to be put forward, and I will give full satisfaction.

"My Lord, this is a great work, for the Devil wages such mortal war, and it is not well that he should be able to do so much, your Majesty being the defender of the right."

Next follows an account of what the Indians of the Island of Taumaco said concerning pearls, a chapter of the second Memorial presented to the King (now lost).

Then follows the interesting report by Hernando de los Rios, the Procurator of the Philippines, of a voyage to New Guinea, by a Portuguese named Miguel Roxo de Brito. An extract follows from a letter received by Quiros dated 15th June, 1607, from his second in command, Luis Vaez de Torres, and which reached him on the last of August, 1609, relating the discovery of the Strait which now bears his name, which separates Australia from New Guinea.

Now follows a long report by Ruy Gonzalez de Sequeira, the Governor of the Maluccas, referring to natives who had arrived from New Guinea, and of many islands that were hitherto unknown in the neighbourhood of New Guinea and of the Tierra Austral.

Quiros then reprints the contents of his sixteenth Memorial, which contains many references to Spanish policy in Chili, and urging the King to send out missioaries to convert the natives. He records his conversation with Pope Clement VIII., who told him that his demands were just. He makes detailed proposals for the government of the newly-discovered land, and for the good treatment of the natives, and for their conversion. He pays much attention to the seamanship of the proposed expedition, and to the navigating maps and the general management of the expedition. He writes much about Columbus's expedition and compares himself to Columbus, Da Gama and Magellan, as well as to Cortes and Pizarro. He asks for the following to be sent with him: eighty laymen and clerics, including Don Mancio del Urena, twelve Spanish Capuchin monks (they had written him 102 letters), Fray Bernardino, and Fray Andres del Alameyda, both Dominican monks, six captains, who had offered to accompany him, etc., etc., and submits detailed estimates.

THE SCARCITY OF THIS MEMORIAL (AND INDEED OF ALL MEMORIALS OF QUIROS) IS TO BE PARTLY ATTRIBUTED TO AN ORDER OF PHILIP III., CONFISCATING THEM ALL. THIS DOCUMENT IS AT SIMANCAS IN THE ROYAL ARCHIVES, AND HAS BEEN TRANSLATED BY SIR CLEMENTS MARKHAM, AND PUBLISHED IN HIS EDITION OF THE VOYAGES OF QUIROS (HAKLUYT SOCIETY).

" MEMORIAL TO HIS MAJESTY TOUCHING SOME PAPERS PRINTED BY THE CAPTAIN PEDRO FERNANDEZ DE QUIROS IN THE YEAR 1610."

" The Captain Pedro Fernandez de Quiros, whom Your Majesty has ordered to prepare to return to Peru, in order to prosecute the discovery and settlement of the unknown Southern lands, has printed several memorials in this Court, and recently a very long one, in which he discourses on the expedition he commanded, and treats indirectly of many other things touching the government of the Indies, and other subjects well let alone; and has given and distributed these memorials among various people, both of this nation and foreigners, a proceeding which may cause serious inconvenience, as well from the information that foreigners may be able to gather, and thus send notices of those lands and of the navigation to their countrymen, as from the fact that most of the affairs treated of in the said memorial are misrepresented. It, therefore, seems convenient that Your Majesty should order all these memorials and papers that have been printed, with the originals, to be recovered; and that no others be published without permission from Your Majesty in Council.

" Your Majesty will order what is for your service. Madrid, October 31st, 1610 " (then in the handwriting of King Philip III.) as follows :—

" TELL THE SAME QUIROS TO COLLECT THESE PAPERS, AND GIVE THEM WITH SECRECY TO THE OFFICERS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE INDIES, FOR THESE THINGS ARE NOT TO PASS THROUGH MANY HANDS."

Señor, no ay mas que vn mundo, y despues que trato de descubrir lo que del falta, he pintado mas de 200. de muchas formas, y de muchos tamaños. En el segundo digo, los peligros que aquellas tierras corren con sus gentes, y juntamente las Indias: el quanto conuiene gastar V.M. su hazienda por vna vez: quantos bienes de ambos generos este empleo ha de montar, y assegurar en todos tiempos. Digo lo que se deue hazer en llegando: muestro la planta de la ciudad, y como en ella no aya pleitos ciuiles, y el modo en los criminales. Muestro como los naturales han de ser dotrinados, enseñados, hazendados, defendidos y sustentados en paz y justicia, y tambien parte del de mas gouierno para con ellos, y los nuestros: y otros muchos auisos importantissimos, y muy fruituosos, que todos ellos con seiscientas hojas de papel que tengo escritas, y otras muchas, que por solicitar esta obra dexé de escriuir, lo reduzgo a dos puntos. El primero, que V.M. se sirua darme instruciones de lo que deuo, y puedo hazer en este seruicio de Dios, y de V.M. con seguridad de mi conciencia. El segundo, vn tal despacho y personas Ecclesiasticas y seculares, que con ellas V.M. pueda encaminar y assegurar todo quanto pretende, espiritual y temporal de aquella quarta del mundo, en cuyo nombre, y en pago de mis seruicios, suplico a V.M. eficazmente, se digne de leer y considerar estos escritos, y poner remedio en quanto suenan.

THIS RELATION WAS PRINTED IN THE SEVENTH EXTANT MEMORIAL OF QUIROS, TO THE KING OF SPAIN, CONTAINING HIS PROPOSALS FOR COLONIZING AUSTRALIA, AND CONVERTING THE NATIVES.

IN THIS RELATION CAPTAIN SEQUEIRA GIVES A LONG ACCOUNT OF NATIVES WHO HAD ARRIVED FROM NEW GUINEA, AND OF MANY ISLANDS THAT WERE HITHERTO UNKNOWN IN THE NEIGHBOURHOOD OF NEW GUINEA, AND OF THE TIERRA AUSTRAL.

IT IS WELL KNOWN THAT OWING TO THE HIGH COST OF PRINTING QUIROS AND HIS SECRETARY WERE FORCED TO RESORT TO MAKING MANUSCRIPT COPIES OF HIS MEMORIALS FOR CIRCULATION AT COURT.

IN THIS UNKNOWN AND UNPUBLISHED MANUSCRIPT MEMORIAL, DE QUIROS ACKNOWLEDGES THE COMMUNICATION FROM JUAN DE CIVIZA, SECRETARY OF THE COUNCIL OF THE INDIES, OF A RESOLUTION OF KING PHILIP'S WHICH READS IN TRANSLATION AS FOLLOWS: "WITH REGARD TO THE CASE OF CAPTAIN QUIROS, HIS MAJESTY HAS RESOLVED THAT IN SUCH AN IMPORTANT MATTER IT IS NECESSARY TO PROCEED WITH THE GREATEST CAUTION, AND TO ASCERTAIN THE FACTS FOR CERTAIN; HIS MAJESTY WISHES TO HELP TO DISCOVER WHAT CAPTAIN QUIROS WISHES, AND FOR THAT HE IS TO RETURN TO PERU, AND TO FOLLOW THE INSTRUCTIONS WHICH THE VICEROY WILL GIVE HIM; HIS MAJESTY ASSURES HIM THAT IF HE DOES SO IT WILL BE ACCOUNTED TO HIM AS IF HE ALONE HAD DISCOVERED IT."

DE QUIROS TAKES THIS COMMUNICATION PARAGRAPH BY PARAGRAPH, AND REPLIES TO IT IN FIVE SECTIONS.

HE CONTINUES AND INFORMS THE KING THAT THERE ARE A NUMBER OF MISSIONARIES WAITING FOR FOUR, FIVE, OR MORE YEARS HOPING TO JOIN HIM ON HIS EXPEDITION FOR THE RESCUING MILLIONS OF SOULS WHICH ARE BEING LOST. HE ONLY ASKS FOR THE SAME TREATMENT AS WAS METED OUT TO COLUMBUS. DE QUIROS URGES THE NECESSITY FOR SENDING OUT THE EXPEDITION TO THE "TIERRAS DEL AUSTRO," AND STATES THAT THE CONVERSION OF ITS INHABITANTS CAN NO LONGER BE DELAYED FOR A DAY, OR EVEN AN HOUR.

THE MEMORIAL ENDS WITH THE HOPE THAT THE KING WILL ENJOY IN PEACE AND IN SAFETY THOSE TREASURES IN HEAVEN AND EARTH WHICH THE SOUTH (EL AUSTRO) IS OFFERING TO THE KING OF SPAIN.

NO COPY OF THIS MEMORIAL HAS HITHERTO BEEN KNOWN, AND ITS CONTENTS HAVE NEVER BEEN PUBLISHED.

ZARAGOSSA DOES NOT MENTION IT IN ANY WAY.

THE MEMORIAL IS DIVIDED INTO THIRTY-EIGHT NUMBERED SECTIONS, EACH OF WHICH CONTAINS AN ARGUMENT IN FAVOUR OF THE KING OF SPAIN DESPATCHING DE QUIROS ON A SECOND JOURNEY TO AUSTRALASIA. IN THE COURSE OF ARGUMENT HE MENTIONS THAT AN EXPEDITION HAD BEEN SENT (IN 1606 A.D.) TO CALIFORNIA [MONTEREY WAS FOUNDED BY THIS SPANISH EXPEDITION], AND THAT HIGH EXPECTATIONS HAD BEEN AROUSED. HE CLAIMS FOR AUSTRALIA FAR GREATER RICHES THAN COULD EVER BE GOT OUT OF CALIFORNIA, OR ANY OTHER OF THE AMERICAN COLONIES. HE MENTIONS THE FACT THAT THE KING HAD ALREADY ISSUED ORDERS TWICE TO SEND DE QUIROS WITH AN EXPEDITION, AND COMPLAINS THAT NO EFFECT HAD BEEN GIVEN TO THE ORDERS.

AT THE END OF THE MEMORIAL ARE FOUR MANUSCRIPT LINES AS FOLLOWS: "SE LE DAN CADA MES 100 DUCADOS AQUI MUY BIEN PAGADOS Y SEISMIL DE AYUDA DE COSTA PARA SU DESEMPENO Y EN TODO DICE LO QUE V. M. VE ES UN HOMBRE DE GRANDE ENTENDIMIENTO Y TRAZAS Y PARESCER Y BUEN CRISTIANO."

THIS READS (IN TRANSLATION): "HE IS TO BE GIVEN EVERY MONTH ONE HUNDRED DUCATS IN FULL AND SIX THOUSAND DUCATS TO HELP HIM IN HIS DIFFICULTIES, AND HE IS TO BE TOLD THAT HIS MAJESTY SEES THAT HE IS A MAN OF GREAT INTELLIGENCE, OF GOOD COUNSEL, AND SCHEMES, AND A GOOD CHRISTIAN."

This must have been one of the last memorials sent in by De Quiros, as two years later he was sent to Peru and died on the way out at Panama.

THE FIRST ATTEMPT TO COLONIZE POLYNESIA, PUBLISHED IN 1613.

[572] SUAREZ DE FIGUEROA (Doctor Christoval). Hechos de Don Garcia Hurtado de Mendoza, quarto Marques de Canete.

Small 4to, calf. Madrid, 1613.

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. IV.). £75

A very rare and important volume concerning the discoveries in South America, and also one of the earliest books concerning the "South Seas"

Garcia Hurtado de Mendoza was Captain General of Chili and the twelfth Viceroy of Peru (1590-1596). Sent by his father (then Viceroy of Peru) to Chili, he distinguished himself in the wars against the Araucan Indians, whom he vanquished in seven battles. In the present biography is given a valuable description of this war and also of the incidents which happened during his Vice-Royalty.

It was under his government that the Marquesas and Santa Cruz Islands were discovered by Alvaro de Mendana, who had for pilot Fernandez de Quiros. Suarez de Figueroa gives in this book an account of the discovery; also of the expeditions of Drake, Cavendish, and Hawkins, and battles with these famous English explorers, including the sacking of the Port of the City of Nombre de Dios.

The expedition to the Southern Seas occupies pp. 238-292, in which is given a minute description of the discovery of the Marquesas and Santa Cruz Islands—(the Solomon Islands had been discovered a few years earlier by Mendana). On his return to Peru from this earlier expedition he endeavoured to organize another expedition to colonize the Islands, but it was not till 1595 that he, with Quiros as second in command, was enabled to set sail for this purpose. Mendana, however, died on Santa Cruz, and the expedition eventually collapsed. Even the position of the Solomon Islands was now veiled in uncertainty, and they were quite lost sight of until, in 1767, two centuries later, Carteret lighted on their Eastern shores.

Sir Clements Markham, in his "Voyages of Quiros," published by the Hakluyt Society, makes considerable mention of this book, and writes: "In the work entitled Hechos del Marques de Canete, a life of one of the Viceroys of Peru, by Cristoval Suarez de Figueroa, Book VI., contains an abbreviated version of the narrative in the Historia, generally copied word for word. Numerous details are omitted, particularly such as are derogatory to the Spanish character. There are also a few passages which are not in the Historia. Suarez de Figueroa tells us that he had the narrative of Quiros before him as he wrote. The account in the work of Suarez de Figueroa was the only version of the second voyage of Mendana that was known to our historians of Pacific voyages, Dalrymple and Burney.

Quiros was thirty years of age when he accepted the post of Chief Pilot in the ship of Alvaro de Mendana, who had received a concession to colonise the Solomon Islands, which he had discovered thirty years before. Quiros joined this expedition with some misgivings, caused by the quarrelsome character of the Camp Master, the want of order and discipline, and the position assumed by the Commander's wife and her brothers. Mendana was more than twenty years older than Quiros. The Pilot's position was one of some difficulty; for while on one side he had to exercise tact in his intercourse with the family clique, on the other he found it difficult to avoid friction with a most impracticable and quarrelsome old soldier who was Camp Master, and who had a feud with the brothers-in-law of Mendana, which continued to increase in bitterness. The expedition culminated at the island of Santa Cruz, a new discovery, with the slaughter of the old Camp Master, the deaths of Mendana and his brother-in-law Don Lorenzo, the succession of the widow, Dona Isabel, to the command of the expedition, and disastrous voyage to Manilla.

It was during this voyage, and while gaining experience in the navigation of the Pacific Ocean and the treatment of natives, that Quiros conceived his grand project. He was a cartographer, and, in studying existing maps, he saw a great Southern continent extending across the ocean, from the Strait of Magellan to New Guinea. He thought that here was a discovery as famous as had been made by Columbus or Da Gama. He thought that here was not only a great continent extending to the South Pole to be added to the dominions of his sovereign, but millions of souls to be saved and brought within the fold of the Church. He devoted his life to the realisation of this glorious dream with unswerving devotion, never turning aside to the right hand or to the left; undaunted by difficulties or wearisome delays to his dying day, literally killed by Councils and Committees, but succumbing only with

Madrid, 1622. £75

The author of this book accompanied Mendana (The Discoverer of the Solomon Islands), and Fernando Quiros, when they discovered Australasia. Belmonte is the author of the extensive history of the Australasian regions, and was the chronicler of the expedition.

The above work is a play in which the following are the Spanish characters:—The Marques de Canete; Don Felipe de Mendoza, his brother; Reynoso, master of the camp, etc., and there are twelve other Indian personages among the actors.

The drama celebrates the deeds of Don Garcia Hurtado de Mendoça, Marques de Canete, the famous Viceroy of Peru.

Belmonte was secretary to Quiros during the voyage of 1606. He remained faithful to Quiros in his adversity, and after his master's death became a poet of some celebrity. He had edited "The Memorials" for him, stood by him to the last, and after his death went to Mexico, and appears to have returned in 1616. In 1618 he settled in Madrid. Eleven of his plays are known; Ticknor mentions them as being a mixture of what is sacred and what is profane.

This is the very rare account of the second voyage, published surreptitiously and anonymously about 18 months before Cook's own account. Probably John Marra (Mara), one of the gunner's mates, supplied material from his private journal, whihch was put into shape by some literary person in the pay of Newbery. Page 325 says: "Some (officers) who had kept a memorial by way of exercise . . . . reserved their labours to gratify their friends. Of this kind is the journal now submitted to the public." The preface discloses considerable knowledge of private matters connected with the voyage, and gives an account of the causes which led Mr. Banks and his staff to withdraw in high dudgeon from the expedition at the last moment. Many of the particulars of the voyage are additional.

London, 1776. £10 10s

* * * Another exceedingly rare surreptitious account of Cook's Second Voyage, printed from the journal of one of the crew.

Towards the end of the account it is stated that Captain Cook had orders from the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty "to send all Journals, Papers, and Writings, relating to the Voyage, to the Admiralty Office for their first perusal, and who further requested them not to divulge any particulars of their voyage when they arrived on shore, and to give no direct answers to any questions asked relative thereto." A search was immediately made, and all the Journals and Papers that could be found were put into a box "to be sent to the Admiralty Office by the first opportunity that offered."

This account was therefore printed from one of the Journals which could not be found by Captain Cook. It is for this reason that the Author's name does not occur.

Peter Heywood entered the Navy in October, 1786, and made his first voyage as midshipman on board "The Bounty" discovery ship, and sailed in her on the voyage to Tahiti.

"When the mutiny broke out on 28 April, 1789, Heywood was confined by the mutineers, but was allowed to come on deck when the launch was ready to receive Bligh and his party. The boat, however, could not hold them all, and Heywood with some others was left behind,

Bligh probably thinking that a boy of his tender years would only be an encumbrance. When the mutineers split into two parties at Tahiti, Heywood was one of those who remained there; and when, on 23 March, 1791, the Pandora, under the command of Captain Edward Edwards, arrived in search of the mutineers, Heywood with Stewart, a fellow-midshipman, at once went off to her in a canoe.

They were immediately put in irons; and the others at Tahiti having been apprehended, they were all, to the number of fourteen, thrust, hand-cuffed and heavily ironed, into a sort of cage eleven feet long, built on the after part of the quarter deck, to which air and light were admitted through two iron gratings each about nine inches square. Of the mutineers who had quitted Tahiti nothing could be discovered in a prolonged search. On 28 Aug. the Pandora, in attempting to pass through Endeavour Straits, struck on the reef since known by her name, and was totally lost. No official attempt was made to release the prisoners, but a few minutes before the ship went down the master-at-arms privately let the keys of the irons fall through the grating, and Heywood with some of his companions managed to get out; the rest, Stewart among them, went down with the ship."

"Edwards had assumed these men to be deserving of the severest punishment. All the shipwrecked crew naturally suffered privations; but the prisoners were left stark naked, allowed no shelter, and insufficient food. Both at Batavia, and on the passage to the Cape of Good Hope in a Dutch merchant ship, they were treated with excessive severity. At the Cape Heywood was removed into the Gorgon, where he was allowed daily exercise on deck, and was confined with only one leg in irons. The Gorgon arrived at Spithead on 19 June, 1792, when Heywood was sent on board the Hector of 74 guns, whose captain, afterwards Sir George Montague, treated him with humanity. On 12 Sept. he, with the other prisoners, was brought before a court-martial. The trial lasted for six days, and on the 18th they were all sentenced to death; but Heywood was recommended to mercy in the strongest terms; and the Earl of Chatham, then first Lord of the Admiralty, was so convinced of Heywood's innocence that he obtained for him an unconditional pardon. Lord Hood, who had been president of the Court, advised him to continue in the service, and offered to take him in the Victory. . . .

"In August 1800 Heywood was promoted to be commander; and on 5 April 1803 was confirmed in post rank. He had previously commanded post ships, by acting order from Admiral Rainier, and had, in addition to the ordinary course of duty, completed the survey of a great part of the east coast of Ceylon, from which the admiralty charts were afterwards published. In 1806 Heywood was flag-captain to Rear-Admiral George Murray in the Polyphemus at the Cape of Good Hope and in the River Plate; in 1808 he commanded the Donegal off Brest and in the Bay of Biscay. In 1809 he was appointed to the Nereus frigate, in which he went out to the Mediterranean, and in April 1810 brought back to England the remains of Lord Collingwood."

THIS IS THE RAREST ISSUE OF THIS EXCEEDINGLY SCARCE TRACT. THE WOODCUTS APPEAR IN THIS ISSUE FOR THE FIRST TIME—IT WAS FIRST PRINTED IN ROME THREE MONTHS PRIOR BUT WITHOUT THE CUTS.

In this most interesting work the most notable feats of arms are summarily related which were accomplished by the Portuguese in Mombaza, Cannanore, Cochin, etc., in the year 1505. This is apparently also the first work to mention Ceylon (under the name of "Taprobana"). These events took place under the Viceroyalty of Francis d'Almeida, Count of Abrantes, who became Viceroy of Portuguese India in 1505. During his administration the Portuguese discovered Ceylon, the Maldive Islands, and Madagascar, to which the name of St. Laurence was given. He intended subduing the whole of the Malabar Coast, but before he could put his project into execution, he quarrelled with Albuquerque and resigned. He was killed by an arrow, near the Cape of Good Hope, in a quarrel with the Kaffirs, on 1st March, 1509, on his return journey to Europe.

* * * THESE ANNUAL LETTERS ARE ALL OF THE GREATEST IMPORTANCE, BEING, IN MANY CASES, THE EARLIEST AUTHENTIC ACCOUNT OF THE FIRST TRAVELS BY EUROPEANS IN THE FAR EAST, AS WELL AS BEING THE ORIGINAL RECORDS OF THE MISSIONARY LABOURS OF THE JESUITS. IT WAS THE CUSTOM AMONG THE JESUITS FOR THE VARIOUS OFFICERS TO MAKE PERIODICAL REPORTS TO THEIR SUPERIORS OF ALL MATTERS CONCERNING THE SOCIETY; SO THE SUPERIORS AND RECTORS OF ALL HOUSES AND COLLEGES IN EUROPE HAD TO MAKE A WEEKLY REPORT TO THEIR PROVINCIAL, THOSE EMPLOYED IN THE DISTRICT MISSIONS ALSO MADE FIXED PERIODICAL REPORTS TO THEIR PROVINCIAL, THE PERIOD BEING FIXED USUALLY ACCORDING TO THEIR DISTANCE. THE PROVINCIAL, IN HIS TURN, MADE A MONTHLY REPORT TO THE GENERAL OF THE SOCIETY. SO THOSE JESUITS IN THE DISTANT MISSION FIELDS MADE THEIR REPORTS PERIODICALLY OF ALL THEIR MISSIONARY ENDEAVOURS, INCLUING, OF COURSE, RELATIONS OF NEW PLACES VISITED, OF FRESH DISTRICTS OPENED UP, AND OF ALL MATTERS CONCERNING THE SOCIETY IN THEIR NEIGHBOURHOOD.

These annual relations include:—

 This was the product of three missions. The notes of Martin de Rada, or de Herrada, in the first expedition (along with Pedro de Sarmiento) in 1575, and those of Gonzalez de Mendoza on his mission of 1578, enabled the latter to write the Historia. A third journey in 1581, by Martin Ignacio de Loyola, furnished the Itinerario, which includes Mexico and the Philippines.

This Itinerario is very interesting. Fr. Ignacio on his voyage to China went via the Canaries and St. Dominique, from there he passed to Vera Cruz, across Mexico, between Mexica and Acapulco, and re-embarked from this port for the Philippines and China. Although brief, the account of the Voyage is extremely interesting. He speaks of the Discovery of New Mexico by Ant. d'Espejo.

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. XIV.). £150

 The FIRST EDITION of the exceedingly rare original relation, dealing very largely with the first successful attempt of England to establish direct trade with India, and of the first expedition sent out by the English East India Company in 1602. It gives interesting details of the Naval Battles, etc., between the British and Portuguese Fleets. The relation also deals with America, and refers to Christopher Columbus, Sir Francis Drake, and others. Chapter 4 treats of the "Navigation of Guinea, Brazil and the Orient appertaining to the Crown of Portugal.'

The defeat of the Spanish Armada greatly stimulated English maritime enterprise, by inspiring the people with additional confidence in their national superiority at sea; and, in October, 1589, less than one year after that event, a body of English merchants memorialised the Queen for permission to send ships to trade in India. This was readily granted, and three vessels, the Penelope, the Marchant Royal, and the Edward Bonaventure, under the command of Captain George Raymond, sailed in 1591. The fleet was dispersed by a storm; Captain Raymond, in the principal ship, was never heard of again, and Master James Lancaster was the only one that accomplished the voyage. Although the adventurers failed to realise the expected return for their investments, the practicability of the scheme had been proved, and others were thereby encouraged to embark in a similar enterprise.

The next attempt to open up the trade with India was made, principally at the cost of Sir Robert Dudley, in 1596, when a fleet of three vessels (the Bear, the Bear's Whelp, and the Benjamin), under the command of Captain Benjamin Wood, were fitted out for an expedition to the East, and carried a letter from Queen Elizabeth to the Emperor of China, "but not one of the company ever returned to give an account of the rest."

Whilst these attempts were being made by England to establish a direct trade with India, similar steps were being taken by the Dutch, and in 1594 a Company was formed in Holland, called "The Company of Foreign Merchants," by whom four ships were fitted out at Amsterdam These made a successful voyage to Bantam, and three of them returned, in 1597, richly laden with spices and other Indian produce. One of the results of this voyage was, undoubtedly, the bringing into unison of a large number of English merchants for a similar purpose, who formed themselves into an association and subscribed upwards of £30,000 in support of the undertaking. A petition was presented to Queen Elizabeth for her royal assent to the intended project, by whom a Charter of Incorporation was granted to George, Earl of Cumberland, and two hundred and fifteen knights, aldermen, and merchants under the name of "The Governor and Company of Merchants of London trading into the the East Indies."

The first expedition sent out by this Company was placed under the command of Captain (afterwards Sir) James Lancaster. For the fleet to be employed upon this voyage they purchased vessels in the River Thames, one of which, the Mare Scurge, of 600 tons, was bought from the Earl of Cumberland for £3,700 This had been a ship of war, built by the Earl for the express purpose of cruising against the Spaniards; on being purchased by the Company, her name was changed to the Red Dragon. The other vessels purchased for this voyage were the Susan, of 240 tons, the Hector, of 300 tons, and the Ascension, of 260 tons, whilst a small ship, called the Guift, of 130 tons, was bought for £300 and accompanied the fleet as a victualler.

It is this expedition which is described in this tract from the Portuguese point of view.

With finely engraved title showing a view of the Philippine Islands.

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. I.). £250

This is the original issue of De Morga's work on the Philippine Island, Molaccas, Siam, Cambodia, China and Japan, at the close of the 16th century. It is extremely rare, and there is no copy of it in the National Library, Paris. The catalogue of the Grenville Library in the British Museum states that "This book printed at Mexico, is for that reason, probably unknown to bibliographers, though a book of great rarity." In the Dialogo Cortesano Philipino of Father Joseph Torrubia, published in Madrid, 1736, the "Inhabitant of the Court of Madrid" says that he has not heard of such a book nor of the author; the "Philippine Spaniard" answers him that the book was printed in Mexico in 1609, and is now scarcely to be found, but that he possesses a copy; and he describes De Morga as a man in whom arms and science were united in a most friendly manner, and says that he composed his book from original documents, since he was the first auditor of the Audiencia of Manilla.

De Morga is less remarkable for his literary merits than for his qualities as a jurist and administrator and a commander. His book is rather an historical than a geographical work.

The Philippines had a great advantage over the British colonies (according to the Hon. H. E. J. Stanley, in his translation of De Morga's book published for the Hakluyt Society), in the active co-operation of the Monks, who were not very numerous, but rather were insufficient in number for the work they had to do.

IN DEFENCE OF THE EAST INDIA COMPANY'S MONOPOLY.

[719] DIGGES (Dudley). The Defence of Trade. In a letter to Sir Thomas Smith, Knight Governour, of the East India Companie, etc., from one of that Societie.

4to, vellum (by Riviere), g. e.

London, 1615. £25

The above pamphlet, the only one he published on Indian subjects, was written in defence of the East India Company's monopoly.

Sir Dudley Digges was born in 1583 and went to University College, Oxford. After taking his degree he spent some years in foreign travel, in 1607 he was knighted at Whitehall. Digges early became a shareholder in the East India Company, and was much interested in the North-West passage project, being one of the founders of the Company, incorporated in 1612 for the purpose of trading by that route—then supposed to have been discovered—with the East; in 1614 he was one of the candidates for the governorship of the East India Company. He took an active part in the Parliamentary debates of that year, giving so much offence to the King, that he was imprisoned for a short time. In 1618 the Emperor of Russia, who was then engaged in a war with Poland, being desirous of negotiating alone, James I. ordered the Muscovy and East India Companies to furnish the money, and despatched Digges to Russia to arrange the terms. He left England in April, taking with him £20,000, and on reaching Russia, sent his secretary, Finch, to Moscow with £10,000 and letters from the King. The Russian Emperor would hear of no terms, but compelled Finch to hand over the money. Digges returned to England with the balance in October. In 1620 Digges was sent to Holland to negotiate a settlement of the disputes between the English and Dutch East India Companies. In 1636 Sir Julius Caesar, Master of the Rolls, died, and Digges succeeded to his office.

Digges died in 1638 and left an annuity of £20 to provide prizes for a foot-race, open to competitors of both sexes, to be run in the neighbourhood of Faversham every 19th of May. The annual competition was kept up until the end of the last century.

Sir Thomas Smith, to whom the book is dedicated and written, was born about 1558, and in June, 1604, he was appointed to be special ambassador to the Czar of Russia.

"When the East India Company was formed in October, 1600, he was elected the first governor, and was so appointed by the charter dated 31st Dec. In 1604 he was appointed one of the receivers for the Duchy of Cornwall, and, in June, to be special ambassador to the Tsar of Russia. His grandfather, Sir Andrew Judd, was one of the founders of the Muscovy Company, and he himself would seem to have been largely interested in the Muscovy trade. Sailing from Gravesend on 13th June, he, with his party, arrived at Archangel on 22nd July, and was conducted by way of Kholmogori and Vologhda to Jaroslav, where the Emperor then was. In the course of the winter he obtained a grant of new privileges for the company, and in the spring went on to Moscow, whence he returned to Archangel and sailed for England on 28th May.

"In 1603 Smith was re-elected governor of the East India Company, and with one break, 1606-7, continued to hold the office till July, 1621, during which time the company's trade was developed and established. In January 1618-19 he was appointed one of the commissioners for the settlement of the differences with the Dutch, which, however, after some years of discussion, remained for the time, unsettled. His connection with the East India Company and the Muscovy Company led him to promote and support voyages for the discovery of the North-West Passage, and his name, as given by William Baffin to Smith's Sound, stands as a memorial to all time of his enlightened and liberal energy. In 1609 he obtained the charter for the Virginia Company, of which he was the treasurer, an office which he held till 1620, when, on being charged with enriching himself at the expense of the company, and on a demand for inquiry, he resigned. The charges against him, which were urged with great virulence, were formally pronounced to be false and slanderous, though Smith was not held to be altogether free from blame; and the renewed inquiry was still going on, when he died at Sutton-at-Hone in Kent on Sept. 1625. He was buried at Sutton, where, in the church, there is an elaborate monument to his memory. The charges against him had met with no acceptance from the king; to the last he was consulted on all important matters relating to shipping and to eastern trade, and for several years was one of the chief commissioners of the Navy, as also governor of the French and Somer Islands companies." This booklet of 22 pages contains the instructions from the Jesuit General in Rome to the missionaries in India, China and Japan, and was privately printed, and certainly not intended for publication. He exhorts his fellow Jesuits who are missionaries to follow the example of St. Francis Xavier in their reverence and humility. He defends himself and the other missionaries from the attacks that are made on them. The attacks are based on the following suggestions: That the Jesuits put their hands on everything; That everything is dependent on the Jesuits; that the Jesuits have a very high opinion of themselves and a very low one of everyone else; that the Jesuits are intent on amassing riches; that the Jesuits are interested parties, and finally that they are political rather than spiritual men of action.

He refers specially to the persecution of the Jesuit missionaries in Japan, and recommends to the prayers of his fellow Jesuits, the welfare of Japan and of all the Indies.

(SEE ILLUSTRATION, PLATE No. XV.). £63

This relation of the death of Father Navarrete, in Japan, is of the greatest rarity. It appears to been printed in the Philippine Islands by an unknown printer, Antonio Damba, as he says "Con Licencia," but we have failed to find his name as a printer. Retana in his work on printing in the Philippine Islands gives a reproduction of the title-page and states that in his opinion the book was printed in Mexico. We fail to see any reason for this assumption and have no doubt that the book was printed in the Philippine Islands, as the fate that would have overtaken a printer in Mexico who published a book without permission of the ecclesiastical and civil authorities would have been out of all proportion to the profit that he might have made from the sale of the book. Another reason why we believe the book to have been printed in the Philippine Islands, and not in Mexico, is, that there is no possible reason why it should not have been printed in the Philippine Islands, seeing that it was a relation of the death of a Jesuit missionary who had been martyred in that missionary diocese; Japan, China and the Philippine Islands being one missionary diocese.

Tavera, No. 1244. "The most important document for the history of the commerce and the products of the Philippine Islands.

It contains at the end a resumé of the history of the Philippines.

Grau lays stress on four chief points; firstly, in what form and in what quantity there should be trade with the Philippine Islands. Secondly, if permission should be given to a larger extent than heretofore to send merchandise from the Philippines to Mexico and return the value thereof in silver. Thirdly, if the permission already given to send merchandise should apply to goods of Chinese provenance or only to native products of the country. Fourthly, if permission should be given anew for Peru to trade to Mexico because of the damage that the Philippines had suffered when this said trade had been suspended.

It is interesting to note in this connection that in 1593 by a Royal decree dated 11th January, the merchants of the Philippines were forbidden to go to China to buy merchandise.

Very interesting work which contains much valuable material of the history of the missions in Asia and the Orient in the 16th and early 17th centuries. There are many curious eulogies of these missionaries, Japanese, Portuguese, Spanish and Italian, among them some of the most ardent propagators of Christianity, such as Saint Francis Xavier, etc.

This is the only edition which has been published of this important Chronicle of the Jesuit Order, and it is this circumstance which partly explains the extreme rarity of copies. NO COPY OF THIS WORK HAS APPEARED FOR SALE FOR MANY YEARS, EVEN PINTO DE MATOS IN HIS MANUAL OF PORTUGUESE BIBLIOGRAPHY CONFESSES THAT HE HAS NEVER SEEN A COPY FOR SALE.

Leclerc mentions the existence of this work, but never saw a copy.

Father Pedro Sebastian Cubero, celebrated traveller of the 17th century, was the first to go round the world from West to East, partly by land. He was sent by the Propaganda of Rome to evangelise Asia. On his journey, which lasted nearly seven years, he crossed Germany, Hungary, Transylvania, Poland, Russia, Tartary, Persia, India. From Goa he took a boat to China. On his return journey he visited the Philippines and returned to Vera Cruz to embark for Cadiz.

His relation is rare, but the second part (the above volume) is far rarer than the first. His work is of great importance for the details contained therein on China, Russia and Poland, etc

The original edition was so rare even in Hakluyt's time that he says he could never get a sight of a copy.

Lisbon, Domingo Gonsalves, 1736. £15 15s

This edition of Couto is very rare. It contains fragments of the Ninth Decade, which were never printed till 1736. The best account of the Early Discoveries of the Portuguese in Asia (China, Japan, India).

The author, who was born in Lisbon in 1542, went to India as a soldier and resided there ten years. After a visit to his native country he returned to India, and took up the work of Barros, of which only three decades had at that time been published. "De Couto's ambition," says Theal, "was to bring that magnificent chronicle down to his own time. His writings attracted the notice of the King Filippe I. of Portugal, who . . . . appointed Diogo de Couto Chronicler of the State of India, and Principal Custodian of the Archives there. The first of De Couto's decades covers the same ground as the fourth of De Barros, but there are eight others, so that between these two writers we have a chronicle covering a hundred and twenty years. Unfortunately, a small portion of De Couto's manuscript was destroyed by fire when the work was being printed, and it could not be recovered."

This invaluable work is the best and most extensive history of the Philippines that has yet been written; it is at the same time the best chronicle of the Augustinian Monks, who settled in the Islands since their first discovery, as well as of their important missions in China and Japan. The work has served as the source for many modern writers on the same subject. The author, Father Juan de la Concepcion, died a year before his bock began to be printed. Its publication was due to Father Joachim de la Virgen de Sopetran, Provincial of the Province of St. Nicholas.

The author was born in Madrid on July 1, 1724, and after his education at home he went to the Philippine Islands, where he lectured in Arts and Theology. He became the Provincial Prior and the Chronicler of the Province, Synodal Examiner to the Archbishop of Manila, and Provisor of the Bishop of Nueva Segovia. He returned sick to the city of Manilla, where he died in 1787.

Tavera, No. 687, can only quote three copies of this Manila-printed book—one in his own library, one in the British Museum, and one at the Bibliotheque Nationale, Paris.

The maps include the following:—Map of Japan, by Bagay; Map of Formosa, by Balagtas; Map of the Island of Guahan, by Phel. Sevilla; Map of Seipan and Tinian, by Phel. Sevilla; Map of the Caroline Isles, by Bagay; and the famous large map of the Philippine Isles by the Jesuit Murillo Velarde, engraved by Bagay in 1744.

Thick royal 4to, original half roxburghe.

Printed for the Roxburghe Club, 1889. £22 10s

"In his prologue the author styles himself Jehan de Mandeville, of John Maundevylle, knight, born and bred in England, of the town of St. Aubin or St. Albans; and he declares that he crossed the sea on Michaelmas Day 1322 (1322, in the Egerton and some other English manuscripts), and had passed in his travels by Turkey (i.e., Asia Minor), Great and Little Armenia, Tartary, Persia, Syria, Arabia, Upper and Lower Egypt, Libya, a great part of Ethiopia, Chaldea, Amazonia, and Lesser, Greater, and Middle India. He adds that he wrote especially for those who wished to visit Jerusalem, whither he had himself often ridden in good company.

"The work itself is virtually made up of two parts. The first treats mainly of the Holy Land and the routes thither and in the Paris manuscript it gives the title to the whole, viz., 'Le Livre Jehan de Mandeville, chevalier, lequel parle de l'estat de la terre sainte et de merveilles que il y a veues.' Although it is more a guide-book for pilgrims than strictly a record of the author's own travel, he plainly implies throughout that he wrote from actual experience.

"The second part of the work describes nearly all Asia The place of Boldensele is here taken by Friar Odoric of Pordenone, whose intensely interesting narrative of eastern travel was written in 1330, shortly after his return home. Odoric left Europe about 1316-18, and travelled slowly overland from Trebizond to the Persian Gulf, where he took ship at Hormuz for Tana, a little north of Bombay. Thence he sailed along the coast to Malabar, Ceylon, and Mailapur, now Madras. After visiting Sumatra, Java, and other islands, Champa or S. Cochin-China, and Canton, he ultimately made his way northward through China to Cambalec or Pekin. There he remained three years, and then started homeward by land." (D.N.B.)

* * * Only 200 Copies of this magnificent Work were privately issued by Mr. Tomkinson.

These volumes contain notices of many thousands of objects, which, while differing as to the material of which they are composed, the treatment to which the material has been subjected, and the date of their production, are yet alike in representing the Art of Japan, though under varied aspects. The collection has not been limited to antique specimens, and in no case has mere rarity been a sufficient passport for admission. While in most instances the various objects are typical examples of the finest work of old Japan, others are set among them to show that even in these days the hand of the Artist has in no wise lost its cunning. On the verso of leaf A1 is a modified Ptolemaic Map of the World engraved on wood, which shows Europe, Asia, and the northern portion of Africa. On the latter we find the Nile, with its sources in two lakes, one directly on the equator, and the other just south of it. These lakes correspond in place with those now called the Albert and Victoria Nyanza, showing that their location was surmised, if not actually known to geographers, at least four centuries before their late re-discovery. At the south streams rising in mountains flow into these lakes. The Niger, in Western Africa, is also laid down. This map is a very early example of true chiaroscuro printing.

Of Pomponius Mela nothing whatever is known, but he is believed to have lived in the time of the Emperor Claudius. This is one of the earliest geographical works, the editio princeps of which appeared in 1471. It is written in a clear and simple style, and notwithstanding its conciseness is enlivened with interesting descriptions of manners and customs.

In the Church Catalogue only five other copies are mentioned (British Museum; Bodleian; University Library, Cambridge, England; John Carter Brown; and Lenox Libraries.)

THE FIRST BRITISH OCCUPATION OF THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

[1049] MACARTNEY (Lord). Lord Macartney's Official Letter Book, whilst Governor of the Cape, comprising his entire Correspondence with Officials, Generals, Admirals, Presidents, and Members of the Senate, Judges, and numerous other people connected with the Government at the Cape, from May 8, 1797, to Nov. 20, 1798.

NEATLY AND CLEARLY WRITTEN BY HIS SECRETARY.

409 pp., large folio, rough calf. £87 10s

* * * These letters, nearly 750 in number, give a wonderfully interesting picture of the political and social state of the Cape Colony at the time of the first British occupation. They are addressed to members of all classes of the community:—

The Burgher Senate, Landdrosts of the various districts, British Officials, Naval and Military Commanders, Captains of various foreign ships at Cape Town, Dutch Farmers, etc.

Those addressed to the Burgher Senate and to the Landdrosts throw an interesting light on the strained relations existing between the Dutch population and the British authorities. In one (dated 3 June, 1798) Lord Macartney says:—

"It is not his intention in future to do the Burgher Senate the honor of consulting them with regard to the use of the Stad House. It is His Order that the Keys be delivered to Brigadier General Vandeleur. He shall not easily forget the difficulties made by the Burgher Senate to facilitate the loyal purpose of celebrating His Majesty's Birthday."

In others he points out the advantages to be derived from the British connection. He also gives instructions for surveys to be made, and makes various suggestions for improvements in Cape Town. He complains of the condition of the streets and avenues, "which are so much broken up and out of repair that in many places they are become almost impassable."

Among the numerous letters to the Landdrosts occurs a long and particularly interesting one to the Landdrost of Graaf Reinet, which is accompanied by a long list of "Instructions" (occupying several pages), and a further list of "Private Instructions," the 7th Article of which orders "For particular reasons and until further orders, the said Landdrost is authorized by these presents to keep watchful eye upon the Correspondence between Graaf Reinet and the Cape, or other districts, and to intercept, to open and to examine every suspected letter."

Numerous letters refer to the Oath of Allegiance which many of the farmers refused to take. Persons refusing are to be arrested and conveyed to the Castle of Cape Town. Severe restrictions are laid on the Dutch with regard to moving from one district to another, without first obtaining permission. Desertions from the Army and Navy appear to have been frequent, and the inhabitants are warned against harbouring deserters, severe penalties being threatened in the event of their doing so. A Letter to the President and Members of the Court of Justice abolishes Torture and the Punishment of Death by Breaking on the wheel "and other barbarous modes of execution." Many of the letters bear on Financial Matters, the Paper Currency, Taxation, Levying of Tolls, Contraband, Smuggling, the Slavery Question, the Natives, etc., etc.

In a long and interesting letter to John Barrow, the celebrated African traveller, he remarks: "In addition to the Political enquiries you are to make, you will direct a particular attention to the following objects: 'What Mines of Gold, Silver, Copper, Tin, Iron, Lead and Coal have been discovered, or what appearances of such Mines present themselves to your notice. What Commerce or Intercourse might be carried on with the Hottentots or other savage Nations. . . . Whether the Caffer Country abounds as it is said with Ivory, Gold Dust, and other valuable articles of Trade,' etc., etc."

THE ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPT, 364 pages, NEATLY AND CLEARLY WRITTEN BY THE SECRETARY, BUT WITH ALTERATIONS AND ADDITIONS IN LORD MACARTNEY'S AUTOGRAPH.

Folio, original covers. £125

* * * This volume is of the greatest interest and importance for the history of the Cape Colony, and presents an exceedingly interesting picture of the state of things there at the time of the first British occupation. It opens with an account of the arrival of Lord Macartney on May 4th, 1797, and closes with his departure on Nov. 20th, 1798.

Accounts are given of the various disputes between the British authorities and the Burgher Senate. Lists of names appear of numerous Boers who had refused to take the Oath of Allegiance to His Britannic Majesty and the means adopted to compel them to do so are given.

Proclamations on a wide range of subjects are mentioned, viz.:—Against the traffic in Arms and Ammunition, Smuggling, Expeditions against "The Wild Bosjesmen," Caffers, Hottentots, etc., against harbouring deserters from His Majesty's forces, Letters and Reports to and from the Landdrosts of the various districts, Making grounds for Encampments and Building of Huts for the Military.

Several of the entries between Oct. 7th and Nov. 9th, 1797, are taken up with accounts of mutinies among the sailors at Cape Town and of the means adopted to deal with the mutineers and to prevent their communicating with and affecting the soldiers of the garrison.

Among the Burghers are included many names of historic interest, that of De Wet occurs several times, also Van Reenan, Du Toit, Brand, Villiers, Kruger, etc.

Mention is also made of the arrival of ships of American, Danish, Prussian, and other nationalities, with the restrictions imposed on them with regard to the landing or embarkation of cargoes.

The volume closes with an interesting declaration by Lord Macartney, in which he says: "I have never accepted nor received, nor expect to receive, any gift, present, benefit, or emolument, except some small articles of fruit, venison, or such trifles as it was out of my power to refuse or elude, all of which I am sure could not exceed the value of from one to two hundred Rix Dollars."

All these cuts are of great interest, representing the various ceremonies and offices of the Order of St. John; the portraits of D'Aubusson, the Grand Master of the Order, and of Caoursin, may be considered portraits in default of other representations. Guillaume Caoursin was born at Douai about 1430, and became Vice-Chancellor about 1462; he died at Rhodes, 1501.

Pierre D'Aubusson was born 1423, became grand master in 1476, and Cardinal of St. Hadrian in 1489, and died 1503. He was famous for his resistance of the siege by the Turks in 1480, the Carmelite le Huen describes the personal appearance of D'Aubusson in his account of his visit to Rhodes, in 1487. He also mentions the Chancellor of Rhodes (Caoursin?) —a man of much understanding and great eloquence, a native of Picardy—who had then returned from an embassy to the king of France (probably regarding the custody of the Turkish Prince Zizim).

This French work of Nicole le Huen is not a literal translation of Breydenbach's Voyages because although the French author has followed Breydenbach chapter by chapter and he has reproduced his plates while preserving the main body of the original, he has often added much of his own. In this very rare edition Part II. contains an "account of the wars that took place recently in the years 1516—1517 between the Grand Turk and the Soldan," and many later additions which deal chiefly with the Portuguese Conquest of India. Title and some preliminary leaves wormed.
